

CONTENTS

List of Figures and Tables	vii
Acknowledgments	viii
Introduction: German Histories and Pacific Histories Ulrike Strasser, Frank Biess, and Hartmut Berghoff	1
Part I. Missionaries, Explorers, and Knowledge Transfer
1. German Apothecaries and Botanists in Early Modern Indonesia, the Philippines, and Japan Raquel A. G. Reyes	35
2. A Bohemian Mapmaker in Manila: Travels, Transfers, and Traces between the Pacific Ocean and Germans Lands Ulrike Strasser	55
3. German Naturalists in the Pacific around 1800: Entanglement, Autonomy, and a Transnational Culture of Expertise Andreas W. Daum	79
4. Georg Wilhelm Steller and Carl Heinrich Merck: German Scientists in Russian Service as Explorers in the North Pacific in the Eighteenth Century Kristina Küntzel-Witt	103
5. Johann Reinhold Forster and the Ship Resolution as a Space of Knowledge Production Anne Mariss	127
6. Engineering Empire: German Influence on Chinese Industrialization, 1880–1925 Shellen Wu	153

Part II. Expansion, Entanglements, and Colonialism in the Long Nineteenth Century

7. Expanding the Frontier(s): The Spreckels Family and the German-American Penetration of the Pacific, 1870–1920 Uwe Spiekermann	171
8. Work and Non-work in the “Paradise of the South Sea”: Samoa, ca. 1890–1914 Jürgen Schmidt	195
9. German Women in the South Sea Colonies, 1884–1919 Livia Rigotti	213
10. Sacrifice, Heroism, Professionalization, and Empowerment: Colonial New Guinea in the Lives of German Religious Women, 1899–1919 Katharina Stornig	237
11. Rape, Indenture, and the Colonial Courts in German New Guinea Emma Thomas	255
12. The Trans-Pacific “Ghadar” Movement: The Role of the Pacific in the Indo-German Plot to Overthrow the British Empire during World War I Douglas T. McGetchin	277
13. The Vava’u Germans: History and Identity Construction of a Transcultural Community with Tongan and Pomeranian Roots Reinhard Wendt	292
Epilogue German Histories and Pacific Histories: New Directions Matt Matsuda	309
Index	313