This book grew out of the project Nordic Centre of Excellence ‘The Nordic Welfare State – Historical Foundations and Future Challenges’ (NordWel), which was funded by Nordforsk 2007–14. Everything started at a meeting in Berlin in 2010 devoted to ‘the welfare state’, the unknown key concept of the twentieth century. Klaus Petersen and Jørn Henrik Petersen came up with the original proposal to trace and study its history and should be duly credited for sharing the idea. One year later, NordWel staged another mini seminar in Rome, where we continued our lively discussions. The idea to write a book took root, and this edited volume has slowly grown over the years. In December 2013, we held a conference in Stockholm, where our invited commentators Stephan Lessenich, Åsa Lundqvist, Urban Lundberg, Dorottya Szikra and Daniel Wincott did a great job with the early versions of the texts. Jussi Kurunmäki and Johan Strang matched their efforts at the second workshop in Stockholm in February 2016. We would also like to thank the commentators and participants at conferences in Reykjavík, Glasgow, Odense, Tromsø and Vancouver, and our publisher’s anonymous reviewers for many constructive questions and comments.

NordWel funded our earlier meetings, and Riksbankens Jubileumsfond, who provided Nils Edling’s research grant (P12-0269), generously co-financed the later ones. Pauli Kettunen’s research has been funded by Academy of Finland, Research Council for Culture and Society, research project ‘Nationalism and Democracy in the Welfare State’. Klaus Petersen’s research has been conducted within the Niels Bohr Project ‘“Uses of literature”: The Social Dimensions of Literature’ (Danish National Research Foundation, project no. 26223).
