

ILLUSTRATIONS

Figures

1.1.	The relationship between an individual and a bull is expressed in the bull name (sara dip') which designates the colour of the bull	30
1.2.	Each relationship with Alter is expressed by a name	30
1.3	The relationship to cattle and to the colour that expresses it is renewed by interaction with Ego and his names	31
1.4	Ego's relationships are expressed in the form of anthroponyms converging on a colour	31
2.1	The fundamental and subsidiary colours (ree and kala-tange) are transmitted in pairs	44
2.2	Taking the father as a starting point, and then amongst siblings, the fundamental colour of one person determines the derived colour of the next person down in order of birth	45
2.3	Six names circulate in a meeting between three people	49
2.4	Origins and changes in women's colours after marriage	53
2.5	Possible circulation of colours for a man	58
2.6	Possible circulation of colours for a woman	59

2.7	Distribution and transmission of colours in Selabuyo's family	60
3.1.	Information included in Ngadongi's poem	69
5.1.	Patterns of riru scarifications	115
6.1.	The temporary ornamentation of the men (left) facing the usual ornamentation of the women (right)	142
6.2.	Plan of the fourth sequence	148
7.1.	A scarified grey ox	165
8.1.	The six successive grades of the Mursi age system	183
10.1.	Top: the spatial distribution of ritual and ceremonial activities (here, the sacrifice of cattle one after the other in the stone circles, the blessing of the cattle and the dances). Bottom: the spatial distribution in public debates	232

Tables

1.1.	Means and effects of coloured names	36
2.1.	The type of person who is the source of the colours and the relationships with the corresponding animals	47
2.2.	The relationship of each person with his colours and the corresponding animals	48
5.1.	Causes of bleedings and chronology with scarifications	119
7.1.	Contrasted characteristics of relationships between people and between the herdsman and his animal	174
8.1.	Correspondences between the names of grades and common nouns	187

Photographs

0.1.	The lip-plates became a primitivist contemporary emblem	3
------	---	---

0.2.	The relationship between East African pastoralist and cattle is remarkable due to the emotional, expressive attachment that they have for their cattle	11
4.1.	Giray put some clay on her forehead when she woke up	100
5.1.	Session of kitchoa scarifications	117
6.1.	A mature woman (a 'wife') is placing an object on a dancer's shoulders	149
6.2.	A young woman dancing	153
6.3.	While some young girls continue their dance, some mature women advance in single file or in groups, raising their arms towards the sky recalling bovine horns	155
7.1.	A scarified grey-green-blue (chage) bull	163
9.1.	Three 'junior elders' (rori) from Maredunka before going off to 'steal' the ox	221
9.2.	'Junior warriors' (dong'ay) taking the ox back to the encampment where it will be put to death	223