Acknowledgements

Since I first came across Wilhelm Herzberg's Jewish Family Papers almost ten years ago, it has been my wish to direct more scholarly attention to this intriguing novel. Therefore, it is my great pleasure to sincerely thank the people and institutions who were involved in the publication of this volume. Over two years ago, my idea began to crystallize in a more concrete manner. On July 13, 2018, a first workshop on Herzberg's Jewish Family Papers took place at the Selma Stern Center for Jewish Studies Berlin-Brandenburg. I would like to express my gratitude to the co-organizer of this workshop, Kathrin Wittler, as well as to all the participants for a thought-provoking and highly stimulating day.

It is my honest pleasure to thank all the contributors to this volume, some of whom attended the workshop in 2018. I am extremely happy that I was able to gather such an outstanding group of experts and I appreciate their participation in this project and their shared fascination with Herzberg's Jewish Family Papers. It is to my greatest regret that two of the scholars who initially expressed interest in this project – Prof. Reinhard Rürup (1934–2018) and Prof. Jonathan Hess (1965–2018) – passed away before the workshop took place. I would like to offer my sincerest condolences and deepest sympathy to their families, friends, and colleagues.

Neither the workshop nor this publication would have been possible without the generous financial support of the Wissenschaftliche Arbeitsgemeinschaft des Leo Baeck Instituts (WAG), the German branch of the Leo Baeck Institute. Its chairperson from 2009 to 2020, Prof. Stefanie Schüler-Springorum, deserves my highest gratitude and acknowledgement for supporting both scholars of German-Jewish studies in the early stages of their career in general and this project in particular. Prof. Schüler-Springorum is the driving force behind the establishment of a postdoctoral network within the WAG, which was founded in March 2017. Five of our contributors are members of this network.

The Selma Stern Center for Jewish Studies Berlin-Brandenburg, especially its senior fellows, supported this project from the very beginning and I would like to take this opportunity to sincerely thank Prof. Christina von Braun, Prof. Micha Brumlik, Prof. Irmela von der Lühe, and Prof. Helmut Peitsch for their ongoing support and encouragement of the postdoctoral researchers at the Selma Stern Center.

I am very grateful to the De Gruyter publishing house, Dr. Julia Brauch, and Dr. Werner Tress for including this volume in their program. The anonymous reader's report was extremely helpful, and the copy-editing was highly professional. Additionally, numerous anonymous reviewers and language editors were involved in the publication process and I would like to extend my warmest thanks to all of them for taking the time to help to improve the individual chapters. A special thanks goes to Camilla Winter and Katharine Handel for their wonderful collaboration. Furthermore, I would like to thank Prof. Mark H. Gelber, Prof. Rainer Kampling, Dr. Jan Kühne, Dr. Małgorzata Anna Maksymiak, Dr. Monika Schärtl, Dr. Stefan Vogt, Simone Damis, Hagit Drevfuss, Nadja Fiensch, Camilla Herrmann, and Adina Stern for their support.

The most important thank you, however, goes to my husband Patrick. It was ten years ago in Jerusalem, after coming home from a long day of research at the National Library of Israel, that I first told him about "this novel, which kind of seems interesting for the concept of authenticity in Zionism." Thank you for being there every step of the way – literally!
