

Contents

Acknowledgments — v

Abbreviation, sigla, editions — vii

Introduction — 1

1 Quotations in the collection of the elder Seneca: principles of order — 9

- 1 Terminology: thema, sententiae, diuisiones, colores — 9
- 2 Quotations: sequence, sources, reliability — 12
- 3 Sententiae are non-sequential — 20
- 4 Seneca's collection limited by supporting documents — 28
- 5 Quotations converge in a limited number of shared loci — 37
- 6 Shared loci are signaled through keywords, formulae, and labels — 50
- 7 Conclusion — 59
- Appendix — 61

2 Papirius Fabianus: voice of a philosopher — 65

- 1 Fabianus' reputation in ancient sources: a re-evaluation — 69
- 2 Quest for strength of utterance: the philosopher-preacher — 83
- 3 Traditional speech: phonetic architecture, parataxis, guttatim style — 86
- 4 Fabianus' speech: traditional, lofty — 91
 - 4.1 Fabianus philosophus attacks wealth itself (C. 2.1) — 94
 - 4.2 Phonetic structuring and civil war (C. 2.1.10–13) — 99
 - 4.3 Descriptions of the tortured wife (C. 2.5) — 117
- 5 Fabianus' speech: simple, didactic (C. 2.6, 2.2, 2.3) — 133
 - 5.1 Controversia 2.6 — 134
 - 5.2 Controversia 2.2 — 142
 - 5.3 Controversia 2.3 — 145
- 6 Conclusion — 147
- Appendix — 149

3 Arellius Fuscus: a rhetor reviewed — 153

- 1 Fuscus' biography, and his alleged Asianism — 157
- 2 Sentence architecture and prose rhythm — 165

3	Fuscus creates word-groups possessing highly defined boundaries —	170
4	Word-groups serve as frames: study of C. 2.1.4–8 —	174
4.1	Sentence architecture —	174
4.2	Sentence architecture and informational frames —	183
5	Subject-final word order, presentational sentences, thetic perspective —	197
5.1	Fuscine entries containing subject-final order: fulmen in clausula —	201
5.2	Subject-final order: other factors —	204
5.3	V-S order and descriptive sentences —	207
5.4	Presentational sentences, theticity —	210
6	Scenic mode of speech and the entry-type ‘proposition and elaboration’ —	218
7	Conclusion —	229
	Appendix —	231
4	Arellius Fuscus: presence in traditions —	235
1	Suasoria 3 —	237
1.1	An orderly and traditional description of the moon’s phases —	239
1.2	Impressive language in a technical exposition —	247
1.3	Fuscus among the poets: image of the Despairing Farmer —	250
1.4	Fuscus and moral philosophy: excess rain and the Despairing Farmer —	259
2	Suasoria 4 —	264
2.1	A thought-pattern (entries 1–3): ‘we can dwell among the heavenly gods’ —	271
2.2	Fuscine mediation in the tradition of the planetary list (entry 4) —	277
2.3	Use of Vergil in building loci —	286
3	Suasoriae 6 and 7: Ciceronian speech, declamatory loci —	290
3.1	Fuscus builds loci from a collection of Cicero passages —	293
3.2	Tradition of the ‘Ciceronian epitaph’ —	303
4	Suasoria 5 —	311
4.1	An observation on participles —	316
4.2	Psychological darkness: the great man in defeat —	320
5	Conclusion —	328

Bibliography — 335

Index of Passages Cited — 357

General Index — 375

