

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION	7
---------------------------	----------

PART I

OBJECTIVES AND OTHER OBJECTS OF INTENTIONAL

REFERENCE.....	9
-----------------------	----------

1. REAL, IDEAL AND 'NON-SUBSISTING' OBJECTS.....	9
--	---

- ◆ Meinong's reasons for introducing the theory of objects..... 10
- ◆ Against Metaphysics 13
- ◆ Intentionality and anti-psychologism..... 17
- ◆ Aussersein 21

2. OBJECTIVES AS OBJECTS OF HIGHER ORDER	27
--	----

- ◆ Relations and complexes: the principle of coincidence..... 27
- ◆ Real and ideal particulars 29
- ◆ Relations and complexes as founded objects..... 36
- ◆ Differences between objectives and other objects of higher order. 40
- ◆ Objectives as abstract entities 44

PART II

MEANING AND TRUTH	49
--------------------------------	-----------

3. MEINONG'S THEORY OF MEANING	49
--------------------------------------	----

- ◆ Meaning as 'sense' and meaning as 'object'..... 50
- ◆ Meinong on Sentences and Objectives 62
- ◆ Objectives in the role of propositions 70
- ◆ The function-like nature of objectives 73

4. MEINONG'S LOGICAL REALISM.....	93
-----------------------------------	----

- ◆ Truth as identity of logical structure..... 94
- ◆ A realistic identity theory of truth..... 101
- ◆ Truth and the modalities of objectives..... 104
- ◆ Self-evidence as a substitute criterion of truth..... 113

- ◆ Surmise-probability of objectives as a remedy for subjectivity of cognition..... 119
- ◆ Truth is absolute, mind-independent and eternal..... 123

PART III

MEINONG'S TRUTH IN THE EYES OF HIS CRITICS..... 127

5. RUSSELL'S RECEPTION OF MEINONG'S PHILOSOPHY 127

- ◆ A difference of opinion concerning the nature of propositions.... 129
- ◆ An objection to Meinong's 'psychologistic' treatment of false propositions 132
- ◆ Russell's remarks about truth in Meinong's theory 134
- ◆ The ultimate rejection of Meinong's ontological ideas: 'On Denoting' 136

APPENDIX TO CHAPTER 5:

MEINONG'S DEFENCE AGAINST RUSSELL'S OBJECTIONS. 139

- ◆ Meinong on the famous paradox..... 139
- ◆ Meinong's notes in the 2nd edition of On Assumptions 141

6. AGAINST THE POST-RUSSELLIAN VIEW OF MEINONG'S PROPOSITIONS 147

- ◆ Objectives as objects – Findlay's exposition of Meinong's philosophy 147
- ◆ Objectives as states of affairs..... 155

7. SOME EPISTEMOLOGICAL INVESTIGATIONS CONCERNING MEINONG'S PHILOSOPHY 163

- ◆ The notion of a true judgment..... 163
- ◆ Timeless truth..... 176
- ◆ Objectives in Aussersein..... 180
- ◆ The Objection of Conception Dependence 184

PART IV
MEINONG'S THEORY IN THE PERSPECTIVE OF
PHILOSOPHICAL SEMANTICS	191
8. REFERENCE IN A MEINONGIAN SEMANTICS	191
◆ Intensional reference and denotational reference	193
◆ The meanings of sentences and states of affairs	200
◆ The reference of sentences in a Meinongian semantics.....	205
9. THE SPECIFIC FEATURES OF A MEINONGIAN SEMANTICS.	215
◆ Two notions of reference and two notions of extension.....	215
→ Reference in Meinongian logics	216
→ A 'broad' notion of extension	226
◆ Two kinds of properties and two kinds of predication	232
◆ Two senses of 'there is'.....	239
→ The principle of independence of so-being from being.....	239
→ Quantifying over nonexistent objects	241
CONCLUSION: THE COSTS OF PRESERVING EPISTEMOLOGICAL
REALISM.....	249
BIBLIOGRAPHY	255
INDEX OF NAMES	261