

Contents

Introduction.....	1
Marion Aptroot and Björn Hansen (Düsseldorf/Regensburg)
A. Haredi Yiddish today
1. Noun plurals in Israeli Hasidic Yiddish: a psycholinguistic perspective	9
Netta Abugov and Dorit Ravid (Tel Aviv)
2. Language change in a bilingual community: the preposition far in Israeli Haredi Yiddish	39
Dalit Assouline (Haifa)
3. The foundations of written Yiddish among Haredi Satmar Jews...	63
Steffen Krogh (Århus)
B. Yiddish in the past
4. The (original) unity of Western and Eastern Yiddish: an assessment based on morpho-syntactic phenomena	107
Jürg Fleischer (Marburg)
5. Changes in the position of the finite verb in older Yiddish	125
Henrike Kühnert (Jena/Cambridge) and Esther-Miriam Wagner (Jena)
C. Yiddish from a typological perspective
6. Yiddish modals, with special reference to their polyfunctionality and constructional properties.....	145
Björn Hansen (Regensburg)
7. On negation, indefinites, and negative indefinites in Yiddish.....	185
Johan van der Auwera and Paul Gybels (Antwerp)
8. On superordinate az-clauses in Yiddish narrative.....	231
Moshe Taube (Jerusalem)

9. Aspects of Yiddish adjective formation: nasal suffixes – creativity across a dual heritage..... 253
Simon Neuberg (Trier)

D. A new tool for the study of Yiddish

10. Yiddish passive constructions: a case study based on the new
Corpus of Modern Yiddish..... 269
Sandra Birzer (Regensburg)

- Index 297