

Contents

Acknowledgments — v

Illustrations — ix

Michael Lackner and Nikola Chardonnens

Introduction — 1

Gao Xingjian

Freedom and Literature — 11

Mabel Lee

Gao Xingjian's Transcultural Aesthetics in Fiction, Theater, Art, and Film — 19

John McDonald

The Aesthete as Revolutionary: Saving Art from Politics — 43

Antony Tatlow

The Silence of Buddha: Triangulating Gao Xingjian, Brecht, and Beckett — 57

Liu Zaifu

Gao Xingjian's Notion of Freedom — 73

Jessica Yeung

Reading Gao Xingjian's Treatment of Freedom in Soul Mountain and One Man's Bible in the Sartrean Framework — 79

Wang Liying

The Concept of Freedom in Gao Xingjian's Novel One Man's Bible — 93

Noël Dutrait

Sex, Freedom, and Escape in Gao Xingjian's One Man's Bible — 99

Gilbert C. F. Fong

Wild Man* and the Idea of Freedom — 105

Lin Gang

Toward an Aesthetics of Freedom — 121

Zhang Yinde

Gao Xingjian Carefree: Of Mountains and Seas and Carefree as a Bird — 139

Sookyung Oh

Tradition and Freedom: The Artistic World of Gao Xingjian and His Play Hades — 149

Quah Sy Ren

Multivocality as Critique of Reality: Fate and Freedom in Gao Xingjian's The Man Who Questions Death — 171

Wah Guan Lim

Between Memory and Forgetting: Ten Years after Gao Xingjian's Winning of the Nobel — 185

Lily Li

Finding Freedom and Reshaping Fate: An Exile's Disentanglement from Obsession in Gao Xingjian's Novels — 203

Kwok-kan Tam

Fate as (Re)Visioning of the Self in Soul Mountain — 225

Shelby Chan

Trap Revisited: The Man Who Questions Death and the Tragedy of Modern Man — 241

Index of Works by Gao Xingjian — 259

Name Index — 261