

Contents

Acknowledgements — IX

General editor's foreword — XIII

Editor's introduction — XV

1 Overview of Sandemanianism — 1

1.1 John Glas and the origins of Scottish Independency — 1

1.2 Glasite distinctives — 4

1.3 Robert Sandeman and saving faith — 6

2 Sandemanianism among British Baptists — 13

2.1 The Scotch Baptists and their influence — 13

2.2 Andrew Fuller and Sandemanianism — 16

2.3 The influence of Jonathan Edwards — 24

3 Overview of Strictures on Sandemanianism — 27

4 Publication history and notes on the text — 33

Andrew Fuller Strictures on Sandemanianism, in Twelve Letters to a Friend — 37

Letter I: Introduction — 37

Letter II: Containing a general view of the system, with its leading points of difference from the systems which it opposes — 45

Letter III: Containing a more particular inquiry into the consequences of Mr. Sandeman's notion of justifying faith — 60

Letter IV: On the faith of Devils, and nominal Christians — 69

Letter V: On the connexion between repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ — 78

Letter VI: On the connexion between knowledge and disposition — 89

Letter VII: An inquiry whether, if believing be a spiritual act of the mind, it does not presuppose the subject of it to be spiritual — 100

Letter VIII: An inquiry whether the principles here defended affect the doctrine of free justification in the righteousness of Christ — 111

Letter IX: On certain New Testament practices — 123

Letter X: An inquiry into the principles on which the Apostles proceeded in forming and organizing Christian churches — 131

Letter XI: Of the kingdom of Christ — 142

Letter XII: The spirit of the system compared with that of primitive Christianity — 146

Index of names — 155

Scripture index — 156

Subject index — 160