

Contents

Introduction — 1

Part One: Rhetorologies

1 Successful Reconciliation — 15

2 A Desire for Art — 23

2.1 Buffo — 29

2.2 Parekbasis — 30

3 Mad Consciousness — 35

Part Two: Ethica

1 The Irony of Evil — 50

1.1 Evil subjectivity (Hegel) — 51

1.2 The religious inversion of irony (Kierkegaard) — 54

2 Must We Aestheticize? — 58

2.1 “Aestheticization” as a self-fulfilling prophecy — 59

2.2 Romantic avant-garde — 63

2.3 Expanding the zone of aestheticization — 66

3 Masking Irony — 70

3.1 An art of life — 71

3.2 Aesthete, flaneur, dandy (Baudelaire) — 75

3.3 The economy of dandyism — 77

4 The Melancholic Subject — 82

4.1 On (Romantic) melancholia, gloom and despair — 82

4.2 Theories of mood — 84

4.3 Greek reciprocity — 88

4.4 Psychoanalysis: Lacan and Freud — 90

4.5 The emergence of the self from the spirit of irony — 93

5 The Joy of Dissimulation — 99

- 5.1 Confusion, deception, hypocrisy: Of courtiers and libertines — 99
- 5.2 Seducer or seduction (Les liaisons dangereuses) — 103
- 5.3 From dissimulatio to simulation (Baudrillard) — 107

Part Three: Novel – Modernity – Irony

1 The Philosophy of History and the Poetics of Genre — 114

- 1.1 Georg Lukács — 116
- 1.2 Indirect-mimetic narration — 120

2 The Language of the Novel — 125

- 2.1 The traditional narrator — 126
- 2.2 Reality and illusion — 127
 - 2.2.1 Misjudging reality — 129
 - 2.2.2 Literary irony as digressive refraction — 131
- 2.3 The three structural ironies of the novel — 133
 - 2.3.1 Irony between the author-character and the reader — 133
 - 2.3.2 Ironic relationships between narrator and hero — 135
 - 2.3.3 Contextual irony — 138

3 From Micro-irony (Quotation) to Macro-irony (Genre) — 140

- 3.1 The ironic destruction of quotations — 140
 - 3.1.1 Proust: Quotation as constitutive of plot — 141
 - 3.1.2 Musil: Quotation constitutive of personalities — 142
 - 3.1.3 Joyce: Quotation as constitution of meaning — 146
- 3.2 Pastiche — 147
- 3.3 Parody — 150

4 Novels of (De)formation and Ironic Autobiographies — 153

- 4.1 Educational decadence — 153
- 4.2 From hero to subject — 155
- 4.3 Romantic parodies of education — 157
- 4.4 Ironic autobiographies — 159
 - 4.4.1 Thomas Bernhard's aesthetics of language — 160
 - 4.4.2 Long live death – Life and the art of the novel — 163

Part Four: Ironic Politics

1 The Struggle with Irony — 172

- 1.1 Post-Marxism — 173
- 1.2 The systems-theoretical irony of the state — 177
- 1.3 Pseudopolitical totalization: Carl Schmitt — 182

2 Thesis and Antithesis — 188

- 2.1 Thesis: On irony's structural political subversiveness (Nietzsche, Bakhtin, Butler) — 188
- 2.2 Antithesis: On Irony's structural elitism (Eichendorff, Mann, Rorty) — 193

3 The Irony of the Law (Kafka and Deleuze) — 199

Bibliography — 213

Index — 227

