

Acknowledgments

This monograph would have not been completed without the help and support of a number of wonderful individuals.

My first debt is to my PhD advisors, Professors Carlos Fraenkel and Lawrence J. Kaplan. I am especially grateful to Professor Fraenkel, whose intellectual generosity knows no bounds and whose comments, insights, and suggestions have been a source of valuable inspiration to me. My gratitude to Professor Lawrence J. Kaplan, my Rabbi and friend, goes beyond words; his lectures and the meetings we had in the Second Cup café were always stimulating and thought-provoking, guiding me in articulating my ideas clearly. I am particularly grateful for the long hours he dedicated to clarifying my thinking, improving my arguments, and oftentimes eliminating embarrassing errors.

A special gratitude is due to my mentor, teacher, colleague, and friend Prof. Warren Zev Harvey. His generosity of both time and ideas has accompanied my academic career since I was a BA student at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. His guidance and friendship are invaluable and I am fortunate in having many opportunities to work with him.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to the staff and fellows at the Maimonides Centre for Advanced Studies—Jewish Scepticism (MCAS) at Universität Hamburg. I especially wish to thank Giuseppe Veltri, the director of MCAS, who has supported me since I arrived in Hamburg in 2015. I am particularly thankful for his generosity and friendship.

I would also like to take this opportunity to express appreciation to special individuals whose help and support have played an essential part in bringing this book to light:

To Yoav Meyrav for his patience, professional approach, and friendship. I am fortunate to have benefitted from his editorial contributions and I have truly learned a lot from his careful scholarship.

To Daniel Davies for his friendship and for being there in hard times as well as in good times. I am especially grateful for his serenity and his perceptive comments on my research. Thank you for simply being part of my small world.

A very special thanks to Oded Schechter for his scholarly integrity, particularly expressed in his vital comments on drafts of my work. Oded's genuine intellectual outlook and his friendship are a source of inspiration to me.

Many thanks also to the various libraries and librarians who assisted me in locating primary sources and allowed me to use these sources in my research: the libraries of Breslau and Frankfurt, London's Beth Din and Beth Hamidrash Library, British Library, and Montefiore Library, Oxford's Bodleian Library, the Bibliothèque nationale in Paris, the Vatican's Biblioteca Apostolica, and Warsaw's Żydowski Instytut Historyczny. I would especially like to thank the Institute for Microfilmed Manuscripts at the National Library of Israel.

To Katharine Handel, who read every word of this manuscript, my sincere gratitude for her important comments.

I wish to express my sincere gratitude to Mikheil (Misha) Kakabadze for his invaluable editorial assistance, and to Katharina Hillmann for her wonderful and professional work putting together the indices.

To Adiv, whose curiosity, kindness, and support guide me, I dedicate this work.

Racheli Haliva
Hamburg, 2020