

Acknowledgments

The editors wish to thank the Barr Ferree granting committee at Princeton University for a generous publication subvention, together with Elisabeth Kempf at De Gruyter for preparing the application and Susan Lehre of the Department of Art & Archaeology for shepherding it. We thank Mervin Ebenezer and his team at Integra Software for the book's design, Annika Fisher for copyediting, and Adrian Kitzinger for the eloquent map.

A contributors' meeting held at Princeton, the Pierpont Morgan Library, and the New York Public Library was made possible by the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies, the Department of Art & Archaeology, the Committee for the Study of Late Antiquity, the Committee for the Study of Religion, the Program in Medieval Studies, and the Council for the Humanities. For their participation and support of the meeting we warmly thank Helmut Reimitz, Lawrence Nees, Roger Wieck, Thomas Lannon, Michael Koorthbojian, Éric Palazzo, and Charles Barber. Nikki Woodward, Kimberly Ford, and Karen Koller at PIIRS provided expert and essential administrative support.

Translation of Kristin Böse's essay from the German is by the editors; translation of Charlotte Denoël's essay from the French is by Sonali Ravi and Beatrice Kitzinger. We thank Alexander Baron-Raiffe for additional French translation, and the two peer reviewers for greatly helping us to develop the volume.
