This volume is the result of the individual and joint reflection of the three editors but, first and foremost, it is the result of many years of discussion and collaboration with some of the members of the research group Filosofía y Análisis (HUM-975) and the Unidad de Excelencia FiloLab from the Universidad de Granada, Spain. We are deeply grateful to all of them for playing their part in making this volume possible. Additionally, we do not want to leave unmentioned all those authors who, in recent years, have placed political interests at the center of the discussion of analytic philosophy and many of whom have contributed to this volume.

We also want to thank Audrey Yap, José Medina, Alessandra Tanesini, Manuel de Pinedo, Neftalí Villanueva, Cristina Borgoni, Emily McWilliams, Deborah Mühlebach, Bianca Cepollaro, Saray Ayala-López, Esa Díaz-León, Manuel Almagro-Holgado, Alba Moreno-Zurita, William J. Berger, Daniel J. Singer, Aaron Bramson, Patrick Grim, Jiin Jung, and Bennett Holman for their collaboration, without which this volume would not have been possible. We would also like to acknowledge the invaluable feedback from all those who helped us to review the contributions included in this book: Michel Croce, Matthew Cull, María José Frapolli, Ann Garry, Javier González de Prado, Jesús Navarro, Eduardo Pérez-Navarro, Uwe Peters, Manuel de Pinedo, Jennifer Saul, Josefa Toribio, Jesús Vega, and Neftalí Villanueva. Their insightful comments have greatly improved the quality of the volume.

The EIDE Series of De Gruyter has produced this volume. We hope that our enthusiasm for the topic and, above all, the high quality of the contributions contained in it will do due honor. We are particularly grateful to one of the editors of the series, Javier Cumpa, for encouraging us to submit our proposal. We would also like to thank all those at De Gruyter for their patience, support, and editorial guidance. In particular, we would like to thank Christoph Schirmer, Aaron Sanborn-Overby, and Anne Hiller.

This volume is an essential step in consolidating an existing concern among analytic philosophers for political issues. We hope that more and more of them will apply the tools of analytic philosophy to make the world we live in a more just world.
