

Table of Contents

David Bordonaba-Plou, Víctor Fernández-Castro, and José R. Torices

Editor's Introduction — IX

Part I: Analytic Philosophy and Social Involvement

David Bordonaba-Plou, Víctor Fernández-Castro, and José R. Torices

Analytic Philosophy as Philosophical Activism — 3

Audrey Yap

Conceptual Engineering and Neurath's Boat: A Return to the Political Roots of Logical Empiricism — 31

Part II: Mind, Knowledge, and the Social World

José Medina

Political Epistemology — 55

Alessandra Tanesini

Intellectual Vices in Conditions of Oppression: The Turn to the Political in Virtue Epistemology — 77

Manuel de Pinedo and Neftalí Villanueva

Epistemic De-Platforming — 105

Cristina Borgoni

Philosophy of Mind after Implicit Biases — 135

Emily C. McWilliams

Ameliorative Inquiry in Epistemology — 151

Part III: Meaning, Politics, and Identity

Deborah Mühlebach

Tackling Verbal Derogation: Linguistic Meaning, Social Meaning and Constructive Contestation — 175

Bianca Cepollaro

The Power to Shape Contexts: The Transmission of Descriptive and Evaluative Contents — 199

Saray Ayala-López

Hermeneutical Injustice and Conceptual Landscaping: The Benefits and Responsibilities of Expanding Conceptual Landscaping beyond Failure Reparation — 211

E. Díaz-León

The Meaning of ‘Woman’ and the Political Turn in Philosophy of Language — 229

Part IV: Epistemology and Polarization

Manuel Almagro-Holgado and Alba Moreno-Zurita

Affective Polarization and Testimonial and Discursive Injustice — 259

William J. Berger, Daniel J. Singer, Aaron Bramson, Patrick Grim, Jiin Jung, and Bennett Holman

Philosophical Considerations of Political Polarization — 279

Notes on Contributors — 299

Index — 303