

Contents

Aaron Turner

Introduction: Reconciling Ancient and Modern Philosophies of History — 1

Part I: Awakening Ancient Historical Consciousness

François Hartog

The Territory of the Historian in Antiquity — 11

Laurence Paul Hemming

Just Forces: Heidegger, Arendt and Antiquity — 25

Duncan F. Kennedy

On not Being Modern: Exploring Historical Ontology with Bruno Latour — 43

Alexander Meeus

Truth, Method and the Historian's Character: The Epistemic Virtues of Greek and Roman Historians — 83

Jonas Grethlein

The Universal in the Particular: A Core Dilemma of Historicism in Antiquity — 123

Part II: Transcending Representation and Reality

Aske Damtoft Poulsen

Teleology with a Human Face: 'Side-shadowing' and its Effects in Tacitus' Treatment of Germanicus (Annals 1–2) — 149

Katherine Clarke

Minding the Gap: Mimetic Imperfection and the Historiographical Enterprise — 183

Inger N.I. Kuin

The Life of the Biographer: Plutarch's Presence in Sulla, Antony and Otho — 207

Ahuvia Kahane

Demos*, Democracy and Method: Political Trust and the Science of Suspicion — 231

Part III: Antiquating Modernity

Salvatore Tufano

Walter Benjamin and Greek Historiography — 263

Jerry Toner

When Augustus met Adorno: Class, Mimesis and Restoring the Past — 291

David Carr

Teleology and the Experience of History — 311

Aaron Turner

The Limits of Progress and the Modern Problem of Historical Meaning — 327

Neville Morley

Thucydides and the Historiography of the Future — 355

List of Contributors — 369

Index — 371