

Contents

Prologue & Acknowledgements — VII

Abbreviations — XV

1 Introduction — 1

- 1.1 An approach to Houqua — 2
- 1.2 Aims, current state and sources of research — 9
- 1.3 Organisation of this book — 18

2 Historical milieu — 21

- 2.1 Social relationship in China and the West — 21
 - 2.1.1 Christian thought in Western societies — 21
 - 2.1.2 Strangership and acquaintanceship — 22
 - 2.1.3 Personalization in imperial Chinese society — 26
 - 2.1.4 Hierarchy — 33
- 2.2 A social rise of Chinese merchants? — 39
- 2.3 The Canton System and the Hong Merchants — 48

3 Houqua in his Chinese circles — 61

- 3.1 A “Merchant with a Red Cap” — 61
 - 3.1.1 Prestige and inferiority — 62
 - 3.1.2 The dark side of patronage: The civil foreign affairs — 63
 - 3.1.2.1 The “London” Affair — 65
 - 3.1.2.2 The “Topaze” Affair — 72
 - 3.1.3 The “Napier Affair”: Resisting on the patron’s side — 75
 - 3.1.3.1 Phase I: July 1834 — 77
 - 3.1.3.2 Phase II: August — 81
 - 3.1.3.3 Phase III: September and October — 83
 - 3.1.3.4 Dealing with Confucian bureaucrats — 85
 - 3.1.3.5 Houqua’s patronage and loyalty — 87
 - 3.1.4 The faith began to faint? — 90
- 3.2 A Senior Hong Merchant: Balance between partners and competitors — 99
 - 3.2.1 Partnership — 99
 - 3.2.2 The “Hong friends” as competitors — 105
 - 3.2.3 Nursing the weaker Hong Merchants — 110
- 3.3 Patriarchy, patrimonialism and patronage — 119

4	Houqua with his foreign friends and acquaintances — 129
4.1	Living as a foreign devil in Canton — 129
4.2	Houqua's intercultural communication: A reconstruction — 136
4.2.1	Pidgin English — 136
4.2.2	Letters, notes and other written communication — 146
4.2.3	Beyond business: Social entertainments in an intercultural context — 155
4.2.3.1	Dinner parties — 156
4.2.3.2	Mansions and gardens — 161
4.2.4	Gifts, favors and reciprocal exchange — 170
4.2.4.1	Exchange of gifts and favors — 170
4.2.4.2	Houqua's portraits as gifts — 176
4.2.5	Modes of intercultural business partnership — 189
4.3	Reducing risks, fostering trust — 195
4.3.1	Insurance — 195
4.3.2	Family bonds — 198
4.3.3	Joint business, shared secrets — 201
4.3.4	Houqua and John Perkins Cushing — 207
4.3.5	The Coolidge affair: A test of Houqua's trust — 217
4.3.5.1	Joseph Coolidge and John M. Forbes — 219
4.3.5.2	The Forbes brothers — 224
4.3.5.3	Houqua — 230
5	Résumé — 237
5.1	Trust in imperial China and the West — 237
5.1.1	Familiarity, confidence and trust in Western perception — 237
5.1.2	Where was "trust" in imperial China? — 245
5.1.3	"Familiarity" and "confidence" in Chinese perception — 248
5.1.4	"Trust" under the shadow of sanctions — 256
5.2	Houqua and his "friends": Friendship in imperial China — 261
5.3	Houqua's legacy and descendants — 270
6	Epilogue: How open was China? — 277

Bibliography — 283

Index — 299
