

Contents

Preface — V

Acknowledgements — VII

List of figures — XIX

List of tables — XXI

Abbreviations — XXIII

1	Overt verb classification in spoken language: an introduction and a typology — 1
1.1	The phenomenon — 1
1.2	Definitions and criteria for overt verb classification — 3
1.3	Overt verb classification from a cross-linguistic perspective — 4
1.3.1	The australian and south american type of overt verb classification — 4
1.3.2	The east and southeast asian type of overt verb classification — 7
1.3.3	The slavic type of overt verb classification — 9
1.3.4	Overt verb classification in noun class systems — 10
1.3.4.1	The eegimaa overt verb classification — 11
1.4	Non-finite verbs in niger-congo noun class systems — 16
1.4.1	Bantu infinitives — 16
1.4.2	Non-finite verbs in atlantic languages — 17
1.4.2.1	The classification of non-finite verbs in bak languages (see appendix A) — 17
1.4.2.1.1	Jóola languages — 17
1.4.2.1.2	Other bak languages: manjaku and mankanya — 20
1.4.2.2	The north atlantic branch — 21
1.4.2.2.1	Nyun languages: bainounk and buy languages — 22
1.4.3	Sapir's 1971 "southern atlantic" languages — 23
1.5	General summary of the typology of overt verb classification — 24
1.6	Outline of the book — 25

2	Nouns, verbs and polycategorical stems in Eegimaa — 28
2.1	Introduction — 28
2.2	A class of monocategorical nouns — 29
2.2.1	Nominal morphology — 29
2.2.1.1	The basic structure of the noun — 29
2.2.1.2	Noun class prefixes — 29
2.2.1.3	Evaluative morphology — 30
2.2.1.4	Nominal inflectional suffixation — 31
2.2.1.4.1	Possessive suffixes — 31
2.2.1.4.2	The associative plural suffix -i — 32
2.2.1.4.3	The inactualis nominal tam suffix -en — 32
2.2.1.5	Nominal suffixal derivation — 33
2.2.1.5.1	The life stage suffix -e — 33
2.2.1.5.2	Argument nominalisation — 34
2.2.1.5.3	Denominalisation — 34
2.3	A class of monocategorical verbal lexemes — 36
2.3.1	Basic verbal morphology — 36
2.3.1.1	Verbal morphology schema — 36
2.3.1.2	Verbal prefixes — 38
2.3.1.2.1	Subject markers — 38
2.3.1.2.2	NCPS on non-finite verbs — 38
2.3.1.3	Verb extensions — 38
2.3.1.3.1	Summary of verb derivational suffixes — 38
2.3.1.3.2	Pluractional verbs — 39
2.3.1.3.3	Derivation by stem alternation and prefix change — 39
2.3.1.3.4	Noun to verb causative formation with -en — 40
2.3.1.3.5	The polysemous verbaliser -et — 40
2.3.1.4	Survey of the TAM system — 40
2.3.1.4.1	The completive -e — 40
2.3.1.4.2	The perfective aspect – reduplication — 41
2.3.1.4.3	The venitive-completive -ulo — 41
2.3.1.4.4	The habitual suffix -e — 41
2.3.1.4.5	The inactualis TAM suffix -en — 42
2.3.1.4.6	The anterior marker ba-...-er — 43
2.3.1.4.7	Verbal negation — 43
2.3.1.4.8	The future — 44
2.3.2	Verbal lexemes — 45
2.4	Flexible stems and flexible lexemes — 51
2.4.1	Flexible and uncategorised stems — 52
2.4.1.1	A flexible stem occurs with verbo-nominal — 52

- 2.4.1.2 The same stem occurs in a verb and two or more verbo-nominal lexemes — 52
- 2.4.1.3 The same flexible stem occurs in a verbo-nominal and several nominal lexemes — 54
- 2.4.1.4 Is there an object-to-action correspondence between nouns and verbo-nominals? — 56
- 2.4.2 Flexibility at the level of the lexeme – conversion/ zero-derivation? — 56
- 2.4.2.1 Flexible uncategorised stems and lexemes — 56
- 2.5 Summary of the noun-verb distinctions — 60

3 The Eegimaa noun class/gender system — 61

- 3.1 Introduction — 61
- 3.2 Background: analysis of African noun class systems — 62
- 3.3 Definition of terms — 63
- 3.3.1 Interchangeable uses of “noun class” and “gender” — 63
- 3.3.2 When “noun class” and “gender” are not synonymous — 64
- 3.3.3 Agreement domains, controllers, targets and features — 67
- 3.4 Approaches to the study of noun class systems — 67
- 3.4.1 Canonical noun class systems and the traditional approach — 67
- 3.4.2 The “paradigm approach” to analysing noun class systems — 76
- 3.5 The Eegimaa noun class system from the “gender-plus-number” approach — 78
- 3.5.1 Morphophonological variations in Eegimaa noun class and agreement markers — 78
- 3.5.2 Nominal morphological classes in Eegimaa — 80
- 3.5.2.1 Beyond inflection: Noun class markers as derivational markers — 83
- 3.5.3 Agreement, agreement classes and Eegimaa individual genders — 87
- 3.5.3.1 Gender I a- & bug-: Human gender — 88
- 3.5.3.2 Gender II e- & su- — 90
- 3.5.3.3 Gender III bu- & u- — 91
- 3.5.3.4 Gender IV fu- & gu- — 91
- 3.5.3.5 Gender V ga- & u- — 92
- 3.5.3.6 Inquorate Gender V/IV ga- & gu- — 93
- 3.5.3.7 Gender VI ju- & mu- — 94
- 3.5.3.8 Inquorate Gender VI/IV ju- & gu- — 96

3.5.3.9	Gender VII ñu- & u- — 96
3.5.3.10	Gender VIII t- — 97
3.5.3.11	Gender IX d- — 97
3.5.3.12	Gender x n- — 98
3.5.3.13	Lexical hybrids in Eegimaa grammar — 98
3.5.3.13.1	One full lexical hybrid: bājur ‘young woman’ — 99
3.5.3.13.2	Split hybrids: Hybrids in the plural only — 100
3.6	Summary — 103
4	Non-finite verbs and their classification — 105
4.1	Introduction — 105
4.2	The finite versus non-finite distinctions — 105
4.2.1	Morphological properties of finiteness in Eegimaa — 107
4.2.2	Syntactic properties of finiteness: taking subject argument — 108
4.2.3	Semantic/pragmatic properties of finiteness: Expression of assertion — 108
4.3	Nominal and verbal properties of Eegimaa non-finite verbs — 109
4.3.1	Nominal properties of Eegimaa non-finite verbs — 109
4.3.1.1	Morphological properties — 109
4.3.1.2	Syntactic properties of the non-finite verbs — 111
4.3.1.3	Complementation — 114
4.3.1.4	Phasal predicates — 116
4.3.1.5	Desiderative predicates — 117
4.3.1.6	Modal complement-taking predicates — 118
4.3.1.7	Perception, Cognition and Utterance CTPS — 118
4.3.1.8	Negative predicates — 120
4.3.1.9	Evaluative Predicates — 121
4.3.1.10	Manipulative predicates — 121
4.3.1.11	Elision of CTPS — 122
4.3.2	Verbal properties of Eegimaa non-finites — 123
4.4	The overt classification of non-finite verb forms — 128
4.4.1	Non-finite verbs in different classes — 128
4.4.2	The classification of Eegimaa non-finite verbs is not phonologically determined — 130
4.4.3	The classification of derived non-finite verbs — 130
4.4.3.1	Non-finite causative verb classes — 131
4.4.3.2	Non-finite reciprocal verb classes — 131

4.4.3.3	Non-finite middle verb classes — 134
4.4.3.4	Classes of non-finite denominal verbs derived with the verbaliser -et — 134
4.4.3.5	Borrowed verbs and their classification — 136
4.4.4	Prefix alternations on non-finite verbs — 139
4.5	The nature of Eegimaa non-finite verb forms from a typological perspective — 141
4.5.1	Comparison with deverbal nominalisations — 142
4.5.2	Are Eegimaa non-finite verbs infinitives? — 144
4.5.3	Are Eegimaa non-finite verbs verbal nouns? — 144
4.5.4	Are Eegimaa non-finite verbs Converbs? — 145
4.6	Summary — 146
5	Noun class semantics — 148
5.1	Introduction — 148
5.2	Semantic parameters in nominal classification systems — 149
5.2.1	Typological parameters of semantic categorisation — 149
5.2.2	Prototype theory & conceptual categorisation — 152
5.2.3	Ways of identifying noun class semantics in Eegimaa — 154
5.3	The semantics of individual genders and morphological classes — 156
5.3.1	Humans and their sub-categories in Gender I — 156
5.3.1.1	The lexically determined M-class ø-/bug- — 156
5.3.1.2	Unspecified humans in M-class a-/u- — 157
5.3.1.3	Kinship relations in M-class a-/gu- — 157
5.3.1.4	Human identity groups in M-class a-/e- — 157
5.3.1.5	Special humans of Gender I in M-class ø-/su- — 158
5.3.2	The default gender with some semantic subcategories in Gender II — 159
5.3.2.1	The main default M-class e-/su- and its semantic subcategories — 159
5.3.2.1.1	Special humans of Gender II — 160
5.3.2.1.2	The categorisation of nuts — 162
5.3.2.1.3	Paired entities and distributivity — 162
5.3.2.2	Expression of euphemism with M-class ju-/su- — 163
5.3.2.3	Prefixless nouns in m-class ø/su- — 164
5.3.2.4	The lexically determined class M-class y-/s- — 164
5.3.3	“Assemblages”/ “whole” and “production” in Gender III — 165
5.3.3.1	Assemblages and production in M-class bu-/u- — 165
5.3.3.2	Lexically determined class in M-class b-/w- — 169

5.3.3.3	Diminutive collectives in M-class ba-/u- — 169
5.3.4	Round-shaped entities and swarms in Gender IV — 173
5.3.4.1	The encoding of round shape in M-class fu-/gu- — 173
5.3.4.2	Round shape and swarm collectives in M-classes fa-/gu- & fa-/ga- — 177
5.3.4.3	Round shape in M-class f-/g- — 179
5.3.5	Flat-shaped, wide and big-sized entities in Gender V — 180
5.3.5.1	Flat shape, width and big size M-Class ga-/u- — 180
5.3.5.2	Flat and round-shaped entities in M-Class ga-/gu- : Conflicting semantic criteria — 182
5.3.6	Semantic properties of augmentative expressions — 182
5.3.7	Evaluative morphology – small things and diminutives in Gender VI — 183
5.3.7.1	Expression of diminutives in M-class ju-/mu- — 183
5.3.7.2	Collectivity & personification in M-class ja- — 185
5.3.7.3	Diminutive plurals and body masses in subclass class mu- — 186
5.3.8	Economy and social organisation in Gender VII — 187
5.3.8.1	Economy and social organisation in m-class ñu-/u- — 187
5.3.8.2	Social interactions in M-Class ña- — 188
5.3.9	Precise location in Gender VIII — 189
5.3.10	Location inside in Gender IX — 189
5.3.11	Temporal location in Gender X — 189
5.3.12	Implications for semantic categorisation in noun class systems — 190
5.4	Conclusion — 190
6	Semantics of overt verb classes — 192
6.1	Introduction — 192
6.2	Background — 193
6.2.1	Overt verb classes as conceptual categories — 193
6.2.2	Does lexical aspect/aktionsart influence the choice of NCPS on verbs? — 194
6.2.3	Previous studies on the semantics of overt verb classes in Atlantic — 197
6.3	Semantic categories of overt non-finite verb classes — 198
6.3.1	Default NCP e- : unspecified semantic category — 198
6.3.2	Semantics of overt verb class su-/si- : pluractional class – exasperating events — 200
6.3.3	Multiplicity of actions and participants using NCP bV- — 201
6.3.3.1	Collective actions and behaviours verb class bu-/bi- — 202
6.3.3.2	Multiplicity of actions and participants with verb class ba- — 203

6.3.3.3	Parallels between the nominal and verbal domains: Verbal plurality and multiplicity — 206
6.3.4	Non-finite verb class ju-/ji- : Euphemism — 209
6.3.5	Contact and force with ja- : Killing, hunting, fishing and opposition sports — 211
6.3.6	Inherent psychological and physical states and abilities: overt verb class mu-/mi- — 213
6.3.7	The bodily expressions class: overt verb class ma- — 214
6.3.8	Class fu-/fi- : Unclear semantic verb class — 215
6.3.9	Depraved habits in verb class fa- — 215
6.3.10	Reprehensible behaviour gu- — 216
6.3.11	Durative verb class 9 ga- — 217
6.3.12	Social organisation – ñV- — 218
6.3.12.1	Social interactions 1 – class ñu- — 218
6.3.12.2	Social interactions 2 – class ña- — 219
6.3.13	The domain of experience of grief – class u- — 219
6.4	Conclusion — 221

7 Event delimitation: NCP alternations on non-finite verbs — 222

7.1	Introduction — 222
7.2	NCP alternations on non-finite verbs — 223
7.3	The semantic transitivity parameters — 224
7.4	Semantics of prefix alternations and event delimitation — 226
7.4.1	Definite singular objects — 226
7.4.2	Definite plural objects — 230
7.4.3	Indefinite singular objects — 231
7.4.4	Indefinite plural objects — 233
7.4.5	Objectless clauses — 234
7.4.5.1	Context-dependent and context-independent object deletion — 234
7.4.5.2	Intransitive clauses — 235
7.4.5.3	Stative verbs — 237
7.5	Conclusion — 238

8 Conclusion — 239

References — 243

Appendix A: Classification and location of Eegimaa — 255

Appendix B: Phonological sketch of Eegimaa — 261

Index — 267