Preface

Thanks are due to the persons and institutions who have enabled me to return to the pioneering work of Friedrich Schleiermacher for theology in modernity: Trinity College Dublin for a sabbatical in 2014; Professor Wilhelm Gräb and Professor Christian Albrecht for kindly acting as hosts and conversation partners at the Humboldt University of Berlin and the Ludwig Maximilians University of Munich as well as the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) for awarding a Senior Research Fellowship in 2014. The Colloquia of the Internationale Schleiermacher Gesellschaft at the Leucorea in Wittenberg have offered insightful and motivating encounters. Dr. Katharina Hell is to be thanked for helping to commence the final phase of the project by providing a calm retreat in June 2019. I am grateful to Dr. Albrecht Döhnert and to the co-editors of Theologische Bibliothek Töpelmann, Professors Bruce McCormack, Friederike Nüssel and Christoph Schwöbel, for including the book into the series, and to colleagues at De Gruyter for their collaborative spirit and attention to detail. My family has made the completion of the book possible in manifold ways from everyday tasks to highly specific competences. Fiona Kenny has again provided her proofreading and copy-editing skills, managing tight deadlines with professionalism and patience. Kilian Kenny enabled the turn to online teaching due to the Covid-19 crisis which has accompanied the ultimate phase of completion. Dr. Peter Kenny is to be thanked for his immense support and humour over the past three decades of my exploration of Schleiermacher's work: from his desktop publishing of the manuscript of my PhD thesis on Schleiermacher, to many philosophical and theological discussions, stores of bibliographic materials, and for sourcing new publications. This book is dedicated to him.

Dublin, June 2020