List of Figures

Figure 1.1	Choral masturbation of men dressed as satyrs. Attic black-figure aryballos handle plate, by Nearchos (570–550 BC). New York, Metropolitan Museum of Art MMA 26.49 [By permission] ——45
Figure 1.2	Monkey-like figure, with a short skirt handling round shaped objects of unknown nature. Protoattic krater (known as the ' Oresteia krater', 660–650 BC); detail of the handle. Berlin, Antiquarium A 32, now lost [Public domain] ——47
Figure 1.3	Men performing a comic dance. Protoattic krater (known as the ' Oresteia krater', 660–650 BC), detail of the handle. Berlin, Antiquarium A 32, now lost [Public domain] —— 48
Figure 1.4	Padded dancers (the left figure's hook-like foot is artificial). Early Corinthian alabastron, lower frieze (620–595 BC). Paris, Musée du Louvre S 1104 [By permission] —— 49
Figure 1.5	Scheme of a classic Nō play. Graph by author —— 53
Figure 2.1	Satyrs in perizoma dancing to aulos . Attic red-figure calyx krater (known as the 'Pandora krater'), attributed to the Niobid Painter (c. 460–450 BC), obverse. London, British Museum 1856,1213.1 [©The Trustees of the British Museum. All rights reserved] —— 66
Figure 2.2	Second style fresco with masks hanging from architrave. Boscoreale, west wall of the cubiculum of the villa of P. Fannius Synistor. New York, Metropolitan Museum of Art 03.14.13f (Rogers Fund 1903) [Public domain] —— 69
Figure 2.3	Detail of Figure 2.2 —— 71
Figure 3.1	Man emerging from the ground. Attic red-figure bell krater (first quarter of the fourth century BC). British Museum 1917,0725.1 [By permission] —— 96
Figure 3.2	Woman emerging from the ground and satyrs brandishing hammers. Attic red-figure bell krater (mid-fourth century BC). Melbourne, National Gallery of Victoria, Melbourne D1–1976 [By permission] —— 97
Figure 3.3a-b	Two young people riding a dolphin. Attic lekythos (c. 525–500 BC). Baltimore, Museum of Art 1960.55.1 [By permission] —— 97
Figure 10.1	The liberation of Andromeda. Apulian calyx-krater from Irsina (Basilicata), by the Darius Painter (340–320 BC). Matera, Museo archeologico nazionale 'Domenico Ridola' 151148 [By permission del Ministero dei Beni e delle Attività Culturali e del Turismo – Soprintendenza Archeologica, Belle Arti e Paesaggio della Basilicata] —— 270
Figure 10.2	The exposure of Andromeda, detail with Silenos. Praenestine cista. Paris, Musée du Louvre, Br 1664 [© 1980 Musée du Louvre / M. et P. Chuzeville, by permission] —— 272
Figure 10.3	The exposure of Andromeda. Attic red-figure kalpis from Vulci (Etruria; 450–440 BC). London, British Museum 1843.1103.24 [© The Trustees of the

- Figure 11.1 P. Vindob. G 19766 (second centrury AD). Vienna, Österreichische Nationalbibliothek, Papyrussammlung [By Permission] 289
- Figure 11.2 Statuette of Euripides with catalogue of plays (first or second century AD).

  Paris, Musée du Louvre, Ma 343 [© RMN-Grand Palais (Musée du Louvre)/Hervé
  Lewandowski] —— 291
- Figure 17.1 Col. I of P. Oxy. 2161 (second century AD). Oxford, Sackler Library, Papyrology Rooms [Courtesy of the Egyptian Exploration Society and the University of Oxford Imaging Papyri Project] —— 400
- Figure 18.1 Pinax from Penteskouphia. Berlin, Staatliche Museen, Antikensammlung F. 683 + 757 + 822 + 829 = Wachter 2002, CO(rinthian) P(inax) 63) [Drawing from: Zimmer 1982, p. 31] 422
- Figure 19.1 Searching satyrs. Attic red-figure lidded jar fragment, attributed to Onesimos (sometimes Euphronios, c. 500–480 BC). Malibu, The J.P. Getty Museum, 81.AE.206.D.2015 [Open Content] —— 447
- Figure 21.1 Bearded satyr and maenad, both in female dress. Attic red-figure chous (c. 450–400 BC). Athens, National Archaeological Museum 1220 [By permission] —— 458
- Figure 21.2 Satyr wearing bra/false breasts. Fragment of an Attic red-figure bell krater.

  Athens, Agora Museum P 169 [By permission] —— 459
- Figure 21.3 Mathu Andersen in drag with beard. Mailibu, Getty Images 2013 [Photo: Jennifer Lourie. Open Content] —— 460
- Figure 21.4 Bearded men in female dress. Attic red-figure column krater, attributed to the Pig Painter (c. 470–460 BC). Cleveland, Museum of Art 1926.549 [By permission] —— 461
- Figure 27.1 Theatrical cast of an Athenian satyr play below Dionysos and Ariadne. Athenian red-figure volute krater by the Pronomos Painter. Naples, Museo Archeologico Nazionale 81673 [Photo from Furtwängler et al. 1932, pl. 143–144] 589
- Figure 27.2 Detail of Figure 27.1. Actors dressed up as Heracles and Papposilenos [Photo from N. Chourmouziadis in Christopoulos and Bastias 1972, 364] —— 589
- Figure 27.3 Chorusmen and flute-player of a satyr drama. Athenian red-figure dinos by the Painter of the Athens Dinos (420–400 BC). Athens, National Museum 13027 [© Athens, National Museum] ——591
- Figure 27.4 Chorusmen and flute-player of a satyr drama Fragments of an Athenian redfigure bell krater, attributed to the Painter of the Athens Dinos (420–400 BC).
  Bonn, Akademisches Kunstmuseum 1216.184–185; 1216.354–357; 1216.183;
  1216.091 [© Akademisches Kunstmuseum der Universität Bonn. Photo: Jutta
  Schubert] ——592
- Figure 27.5a-c Satyrs robbing Heracles of his weapons. Athenian red-figure volute krater from Padula (510–500 BC). Salerno, Museo Archeologico Provinciale [© Salerno, Museo Archeologico Provinciale] —— 593–4

Figure 27.6	Old Silenos covered with white hair. Athenian red-figure oinochoë by Hermonax (460–450 BC). Formerly (as a loan) Basel, Antikensammlung und Sammlung Ludwig Kä 430 [© Cahn Auktionen AG. Auktion 6. Kunstwerke der Antike. Auktionskatalog Basel 5 November 2011 (Basel 2011) Nr. 96] ——596
Figure 27.7	'Satyr family' including the aged Silenos. Athenian red-figure calyx krater, attributed to the Villa Giulia Painter (460–450 BC). Karlsruhe, Badisches Landesmuseum B 3 [© Badisches Landesmuseum Karlsruhe. Photo: Th. Goldschmidt] —— 597
Figure 27.8	White-haired Silenos (accompanying Dionysos?). Fragment of an undetermined Athenian red-figure vase (450–425 BC). Delos, Archaeological Museum B 3755 [Photo from Dugas 1952, pl. 54] —— 598
Figure 27.9	White-haired Silenos receives the child-Dionysos. Athenian white-ground calyx krater by the Phiale Painter (440–430 BC). Rome, Musei Vaticani 16586 [Photo: H.R. Goette] —— 599
Figure 27.10a	Three satyrs wearing perizoma and carrying mallets, scene of anodos of a goddess. Athenian red-figure stamnos, attributed to the Eucharides Painter (500–490 BC). Paris, Louvre CP 10754 [© 1970 Musée du Louvre / Maurice et Pierre Chuzeville] —— 602
Figure 27.10b	Join with figure 27.10a, head of a goddess rising from ground. Athenian red-figure stamnos, attributed to the Eucharides Painter. Paris, Louvre CP 10754 [Photo from From Simon 1989a, pl. 35.2] —— 603
Figure 27.11	Chorusmen dressed up as cocks and flute-player. Athenian red-figure calyx krater ('Getty Birds', 440–430 BC). Naples, Museo Archeologico Nazionale [© Ministero dei Beni e delle Attività Culturali e del Turismo – Museo Archeologico Nazionale di Napoli] ——604
Figure 27.12a-b	Chorusman dressed up as a cock and flute-player. Athenian red-figure pelike (440–430 BC). Atlanta, Michael C. Carlos Museum of Emory University. Carlos Collection of Ancient Art 2008.4.1 [© Michael C. Carlos Museum, Emory University. Photo by Bruce M. White, 2008] —— 605–6
Figure 27.13	Satyrs witnessing the anodos of a goddess. Fragments of an Athenian red-figure cup by the Sotades Painter (460–450 BC). Boston, Museum of Fine Arts 03.841 [© Boston, Museum of Fine Arts/ Open Content Program] —— 607
Figure 27.14a-b	Satyrs and the anodos of a goddess. Athenian red-figure volute krater by the Painter of Bologna 279 (450–440 BC). Ferrara, Museo Nazionale di Spina 3031 [From photographs in the photograph collection of the Archaeological Institute, University of Bonn] — 607–8
Figure 27.15a–b	Satyrs as furniture movers. Athenian red-figure kalpis by the Leningrad Painter (470–460 BC). Boston, Museum of Fine Arts 03.788 [© Boston, Museum of Fine Arts / Open Content Program] —— 609–10
Figure 27.16	Chorusman near a man holding a torch (Prometheus?). Fragment of an Athenian red-figure bell krater by the Lykaon Painter (c. 440 BC).  Oxford, Ashmolean Museum 1927.4 [© Ashmolean Museum, University of Oxford] —— 612

Figure 27.17	Figure 27.17 Aged silens as 'Singers at the Panathenaia'. Athenian red-figure bell krater by Polion (430–420 BC). New York, Metropolitan
	Museum of Art 25.78.66 [© New York, Metropolitan Museum of Art / Open Content Program] —— 613
Figure 27.18	Return of Hephaestus. Athenian red-figure calyx krater by the Altamura
0	Painter (470–460 BC). Vienna, Kunsthistorisches Museum IV 985
	[© Kunsthistorisches Museum Wien] —— 614
Figure 27.19	Return of Hephaestus. Athenian red-figure calyx krater by the Altamura
	Painter (470–460 BC). Naples, Museo Archeologico Nazionale Stg. 701
	[© Ministero dei Beni e delle Attività Culturali e del Turismo – Museo
	Archeologico Nazionale di Napoli] —— 614
Figure 27.20	Satyr (with perizoma ) dancing next to a krater. Athenian red-figure cup by
115410 27120	Makron (480–470 BC). Munich, Staatliche Antikensammlungen 2657
	[© Staatliche Antikensammlungen München. Photo: Renate Kühling] —— 617
Figure 27.21	Satyr (with perizoma ) as a part of the Gigantomachy. Athenian red-figure
	cup by Apollodoros (c. 500 BC). Lost. Formerly Rome, Collection Alibrandi
	[Photo from Brommer 1959, 17 fig. 9] —— 619
Figure 27.22	Satyr (with perizoma ) as an armed warrior. Athenian red-figure amphora of
50.0 27.22	Panathenaic shape by the Eucharides Painter (480–470 BC). Malibu,
	The J. Paul Getty Museum 86.AE.190.1–6 + 86.AE.575 [© Malibu, The J. Paul
	Getty Museum / Open Content Program] —— 620
Figure 27.23	Satyr (with perizoma ) as an armed warrior. Athenian red-figure pelike by the
	Geras Painter (480–470 BC). Boston, Museum of Fine Arts 64.2032
	[© Boston, Museum of Fine Arts / Open Content Program] — 621
Figure 27.24	Satyrs attacking Iris near an altar. Athenian red-figure cup, attributed to the
J	circle of the Nikosthenes Painter (c. 500 BC). Boston, Museum of Fine Arts
	08.30a [© Boston, Museum of Fine Arts / Open Content Program] — 623
Figure 27.25a-b	Satyrs driving away Iris from an altar and attacking Hera. Athenian red-
•	figure cup by the Brygos Painter (490–480 BC). London, British Museum E
	65 [© Trustees of the British Museum] —— 623–4
Figure 27.26	Aged silens as dignitaries opposite the Sphinx. Athenian red-figure kalpis
	(470–460 BC). Würzburg, Martin-von-Wagner Museum der Universität ZA 20
	(permanent loan of the Nereus foundation) [© Martin-von Wagner-Museum
	der Universität Würzburg. Photo: C. Kiefer] —— 625
Figure 27.27	Old silen leaning on branches. Fragment of an Athenian red-figure bell krater
_	(440–400 BC). Bonn, Akademisches Kunstmuseum 1216.141 [© Akademisches
	Kunstmuseum der Universität Bonn. Photo: Jutta Schubert] —— 626
Figure 27.28	Old silens with sticks approaching a female harpist. Athenian red-figure
	calyx krater, attributed to the Phiale Painter (440–430 BC). New York, Metropolitan Museum of Art 1991.392.13 [© New York, Metropolitan Museum of Art / Open Content Program] —— 627
Figure 27.29	Satyrs and old Silenos show great interest in the Fire of Prometheus.
-	Athenian red-figure bell krater by the Nikias Painter (c. 410 BC). Gotha,
	Schlossmuseum 75 (AVa 110) [From a photograph in the photograph collection of the Archaeological Institute. University of Bonnl — 628

Figure 27.30	Chorusmen of a satyr play. Apulian bell krater by the Tarporley Painter (early fourth century BC). Sydney, The University of Sydney. Nicholson Museum 47.05 [© Nicholson Museum of the University of Sydney] —— 631
Figure 27.31	Blinding of Polyphemus and satyrs dancing nearby. Lucanian calyx krater by the Cyclops Painter (420–410 BC). London, British Museum 1947.0714.18 [© Trustees of the British Museum] —— 632
Figure 28.1	Corinthian komast figure, dancer grabbing buttocks. Corinthian black-figure alabastron (625–600 BC). Paris, Musée du Louvre E 588 [© Musée du Louvre, Dist. RMN-Grand Palais / Les frères Chuzeville] —— 640
Figure 28.2	Three male dancers in different poses. Athenian black-figure cup, attributed to the Komast Group (KY Painter, first quarter of sixth century BC). Paris, Musée du Louvre CP 10235 [© Musée du Louvre] —— 642
Figure 28.3	Three satyrs masturbating. Athenian black-figure aryballos, signed by Nearchos (c. 570 BC). New York, Metropolitan Museum of Art 26.49 [© The Metropolitan Museum of Art. Image source: Art Resource, NY] —— 644
Figure 28.4	Komast and 'satyr'. Detail of Corinthian column krater (first quarter of sixth century BC). Paris, Musée du Louvre E 632 [Drawing: D. Weiss (after Steinhart 2004, 44, fig. 13)] —— 645
Figure 28.5	East Greek krater, from Cyme in Aeolis (mid-late sixth century BC). London, British Museum 1904.0601.1 [© The Trustees of the British Museum] —— 647
Figure 28.6	Drawing of satyr and 'padded' dancers. Detail of Laconian cup exterior, from Artemis Orthia (mid-sixth century BC) [Drawing: D. Weiss (after Smith 2010, 120, fig. 1)] —— 647
Figure 28.7	Dancers with equine ears. Detail of Siana cup, by the Heidelberg Painter (mid-sixth century BC). Amsterdam, Allard Pierson Museum 3356 [Drawing: D. Weiss (after Brijder 1991, 399, fig. 96)] —— 648
Figure 28.8	Lyre player and dancers. Athenian black-figure amphora, by the Swing Painter (c. 530–520 BC). New York, Metropolitan Museum of Art 41.162.184 [© The Metropolitan Museum of Art. Image source: Art Resource, NY] ——652
Figure 28.9a–b	Boeotian kantharos (sixth century BC). Munich, Staatliche Antikensammlungen 6010 (419) [© Glyptothek München und Staatliche Antikensammlugen München] —— 653
Figure 28.10	Satyr and female dancing. Athenian black-figure cup tondo, by the Oakeshott Painter (c. 550 BC). New York, Metropolitan Museum of Art 17.230.5 [© The Metropolitan Museum of Art] —— 655
Figure 28.11	Satyrs and females dancing, pair of nude komasts. Athenian black-figure 'Nikosthenic' amphora (third quarter of sixth century BC). Cleveland, Museum of Art 74.10 [© The Cleveland Museum of Art] —— 656
Figure 28.12	Satyrs and females dancing, draped komast. Chalcidian amphora (c. 540 BC). Leiden, Rijksmuseum PC 28 (1606) [© National Museum of Antiquities, Leiden] — 657
Figure 28.13	Frontal-faced male and draped female dancing. Athenian black-figure cup, attributed to the Komast Group (Palazzolo Painter, first quarter of sixth century BC). Cambridge (MA), Harvard University. Arthur M. Sackler Museum 1925.30.133 [© Harvard Art Museums] —— 658

Figure 28.14	Satyrs with drinking vessels and pipes. Athenian black-figure neck amphora, attributed to the Lysippides Painter (third quarter of sixth century BC).  Cambridge, Fitzwilliam Museum G 48 (GR 27.1864) [© The Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge] —— 662
Figure 28.15a–b	Dionysos with dancers, Athenian black-figure neck amphora, attributed to the Tyrrhenian Group (c. 570–560 BC). Paris, Musée du Louvre E 860 [Photo: Stéphane Maréchalle. © RMN-Grand Palais (Musée du Louvre)] —— 664–5
Figure 29.1	Troupe of satyrs. Attic red-figure psykter of Douris (signature, c. 480 BC). London, British Museum, 1868.0606.7 [© The Trustees of the British Museum / Art Resource, NY] —— 670
Figure 29.2	Dionysos at a banquet with a satyr. Athenian red-figure neck amphora; detail from the shoulder of side A. Berlin Painter (500–490 BC). Paris, Musée du Louvre G 201 [Photo: Hervé Lewandowski. © RMN-Grand Palais / Art Resource, NY] —— 670
Figure 29.3	Hoplites mounted on dolphins. Athenian red-figure psykter, attributed to Oltos (c. 520–510 BC). New York, Metropolitan Museum of Art 1989.281.69 (Gift of Norbert Schimmel Trust, 1989) [© The Metropolitan Museum of Art. Image source: Art Resource, NY] —— 671
Figure 29.4	Athenian black-figure skyphos depicting chorus. Attributed to the Heron Group (c. 520–510 BC). Boston Museum of Fine Arts 20.18 (Gift of the heirs of Henry Adams) —— 672
Figure 29.5	Depiction of Dionysos in his ship. Athenian black-figure cup of Exekias (signature, c. 540–530 BC). Munich, Staatliche Antikensammlung 8729 [Photo Credit: bpk Bildagentur / Art Resource, NY] —— 673
Figure 29.6	Campanian red-figure bell krater by the Boating painter (name vase, c. 350–340 BC). Melbourne, National Gallery of Victoria D27–1979 (Felton Bequest) [By permission] —— 675
Figure 29.7	Corinthian black-figure alabastron (c. 575–550 BC). Göttingen, Archäologisches Institut der Universität, Hu 533 g [Photo: Stephan Eckardt] —— 679
Figure 29.8a–b	Melicertes/Palaemon, komast and dolphin. Corinthian black-figure kotyle (c. 590 BC). Corinth, Archaeological Museum C–1962–449 [Photo Archive of American School of Classical Studies at Athens and Corinth Excavation. Photographs: I. Ioannidou and C. Bartziotti] —— 679–80
Figure 29.9a–b	Side a. Aulos player with actors dressed as horses and riders; side b. Silen and satyr/nymph chorus. Athenian black-figure amphora, Painter of Berlin 1686 (c. 540 BC). Berlin, Staatliche Museen, Antikensammlung F 1697 [Photo: Johannes Laurentius. Art Resource, NY] —— 681–82
Figure 29.10	Procession and horse-race (exterior), dolphins (interior). Athenian black figure cup (c. 550 BC). Paris, Musée du Louvre CA 2988 [Photo: Stéphane Maréchalle. © RMN-Grand Palais / Art Resource, NY] — 683
Figure 29.11	East Ionian black-figure cup (c. 540 BC). Münster, Archäologisches Seminar und Museum der Westfälischen Wilhelms-Universität 855 [courtesy of the museum. Photo: Robert Dylka] —— 684

Figure 29.12a-b	Komasts (revellers) and horsemen. Corinthian black-figure cup, by the Gorgoneion Group Painter (590–570 BC). Paris, Musée du Louvre MNC 674 [Photo: Tony Querrec. Photo Credit: © RMN-Grand Palais / Art Resource, NY] —— 684–85
Figure 29.13	Dolphin men. Etruscan black-figure amphora, attributed to the Paris Painter (mid-sixth century BC). Rome, Musei Capitolini 9 [Photo: Koppermann. Courtesy DAI Rome: D-DAI-ROM-65.186] —— 686
Figure 29.14	Satyrs travelling on the sea riding on wineskins. Athenian red figure cup (510–500 BC), detail from the exterior. Paris, Musée du Louvre, G 92 [Photo: Hervé Lewandowski. © RMN-Grand Palais / Art Resource, NY] —— 689
Figure 29.15	Attic black-figure lekythos (525–500 BC). Baltimore, Museum of Art 1960.55.1 (Purchase with exchange funds from the Antioch Subscription, and Frank J. and Elizabeth L. Goodnow) [By permission] —— 690
Figure 29.16	Dionysos and satyr in a wheeled ship-cart. Attic black-figure skyphos by the Theseus Painter (c. 530–500 BC). Athens, National Archaeological Museum Acr. 1281 a [© Hellenic Ministry of Education and Religious Affairs, Culture and Sports] ——691
Figure 30.1	Dionysos and Ariadne as recipients of satyr drama. Attic red-figure volute krater, by the Pronomos Painter (c. 410 BC), obverse. Naples, Museo Archeologico Nazionale 81673 [Photo credit: Album/Art Resource, NY] —— 696
Figure 30.2	Dionysos and Ariadne celebrate their nuptials. Attic red-figure volute krater by the Pronomos Painter (c. 410 BC), reverse. Naples, Museo Archeologico Nazionale 81673. [Photo credit: Album/Art Resource, NY] —— 698
Figure 30.3	Dionysos and Ariadne prepare to consummate their marital union. Attic black-figured neck amphora, attributed to the Dayton Painter (c. 530 BC). Boston, Museum of Fine Arts 76.40 [© 2020 Museum of Fine Arts, Boston] ——700
Figure 30.4	Dionysos discovers Ariadne on Naxos. Fragment of an Athenian redfigure calyx krater, attributed to the Group of Polygnotos (c. 440 BC). Tübingen, Museum Alter Kulturen der Universität 5439 [courtesy of the Antikensammlung des Archäologisches Instituts der Eberhard-Karls-Universität Tübingen] —— 706
Figure 31.1	Attic red-figure stamnos. Attributed to the Phiale Painter (c. 575–425 BC). Warsaw, National Museum 142465 [Public domain] ——721
Figure 31.2 Figure 31.3	Detail of baby satyr from Figure 31.1 [Public domain] —— 722  Attic red-figure amphora. Attributed to the Flying Angel Painter (c. 480 BC).  Boston, Museum of Fine Arts 98.882 [By permission] —— 724
Figure 31.4	Attic red-figure calyx krater. Attributed to the Niobid Painter (c. 450 BC).  London, British Museum 1856.1213.1 [By permission] — 725  Attic red figure chaus. Attributed to the Fretzia Painter (c. 430, 435 BC).
Figure 31.5	Attic red-figure chous. Attributed to the Eretria Painter (c. 430–425 BC).  New York, Metropolitan Museum of Art, The Rogers Fund 08.258.22  [Public domain] —— 730

Figure 31.6	Attic red-figure pelike. Attributed to the Clio Painter (c. 470–450 BC). Würtzburg, Universität, Martin von Wagner Museum 512 [By permission] —— 733
Figure 32.1	Attic red-figure volute krater by the Pronomos Painter (c. 400 BC). Naples, Museo Archeologico Nazionale 81673. [By permission] —— 735
Figure 32.2	Map of Apulia (By author) —— 736
Figure 32.3	Apulian red-figure calyx krater (c. 400 BC). New York, Metropolitan Museum of Art 24.97.104 [By permission] —— 738
Figure 32.4	Apulian red-figure bell krater. Attributed to the Tarporley Painter (c. 400 BC). Sydney, University of Sydney, Nicholson Museum 47.05 [By permission] ——739
Figure 32.5	Apulian red-figure bell krater. Attributed to the Choregos Painter (c. 400 BC). Cleveland, Museum of Art 89.73 [By permission] —— 740
Figure 32.6a-b	Naples 81673 (fig. 32.1) and Cleveland 89.73 (fig. 32.5); details —— 741
Figure 32.7	Apulian red-figure bell krater (c. 380 BC). St. Petersburg, State Hermitage Museum 1662 [By permission] —— 744
Figure 32.8	Apulian red-figure volute krater. Attributed to the Lycurgus Painter (c. 370 BC). Vicenza, Intesa Sanpaolo 112 [By permission] —— 745
Figure 32.9	Apulian red-figure situla. Attributed to the Lycurgus Painter (c. 370 BC). New York, Metropolitan Museum of Art 56.171.64 [By permission] —— 746
Figure 34.1	Sleeping Silenos statue from Lisbon theatre. Lisbon, Museu Nacional de Arquelologia, inv. 994.50.1 [By permission] —— 776
Figure 34.2	Stamped lead disc of Silenos. Possibly from Holt (England). Location unknown, once thought British Museum [Public domain] —— 778
Figure 34.3	Satyr gathers grapes. Oscilla for curtain swag (second century AD). Athens, National Museum 3635 [By permission; photo by author] ——779
Figure 34.4	Silenoi in floral swags. Athens, Acropolis Archaeological Park NK 292 = B131.  Altar, 4 (second century AD) [By permission; photo by author] — 780
Figure 34.5	Silenos as buttress for stage building, stage level. Athens, Theatre of Dionysos (first or second century AD). Athens, Acropolis Archaeological Park NK 2302 [By permission; photo by author] —— 782
Figure 34.6	Silenos as column on stage building, above stage level. Athens, Theatre of Dionysos (first or second century AD). Athens, Acropolis Archaeological Park NK 2295 [By permission; photo by author] ——783
Figure 34.7	Crouching Silenos from left side of front of stage. Athens. Theatre of Dionysos (second century AD). Athens, Acropolis Archaeological Park [By permission; photo by author] ——785
Figure 34.8	Dionysos discovers Ariadne. Chania Archaeological Museum, near Venetian Agora private house, room B (middle third century AD) [By permission KE' Ephoreia of Archaeological Antiquities of Chania; photo by author] — 788
Figure 34.9	Chania Archaeological Museum, near Plateia 1866 private house, triclinium mosaic (middle third century AD) [By permission KE' Ephoreia of Archaeological Antiquities of Chania; photo by author] —— 789
Figure 34.10	Zeugma, theatre. Mosaic of Zeus as a satyr and Antiope (middle third century AD) [By permission Zeugma Archaeological Museum] ——791