

Contents

Acknowledgement — V

Series Editor's Foreword: About Knowledge Services — IX

Foreword by Donita Volkwijn — XIII

Preface — 1

Part I: Being a KM Practitioner

Chapter 1

What does it mean to be a KM Practitioner? — 7

Chapter 2

Overcoming the Biggest Hurdle in KM: “Buy-in” at all Levels of Organization — 19

Chapter 3

Blending People, Process, and Technology — 29

Chapter 4

16 Processes for Knowledge Transfer & Retention — 35

Chapter 5

Knowledge Retention Framework — 47

Chapter 6

Knowledge Retention Maturity Model — 55

Part II: Being an OD and D&I Practitioner

Chapter 7

How is Organization Design (OD) Practiced? — 63

Chapter 8

How is Organization Development (OD) Practiced? — 75

Chapter 9

How is D&I Practiced? — 89

Chapter 10

Exploration and Application of “Use of Self” through Gestalt — 97

Chapter 11

Embedding and Combining Polarity Thinking and Story Thinking — 111

Part III: Conversational Leadership: Combining KM, OD, and D&I for Application Inside Organizations

Chapter 12

What do we Mean by Conversational Leadership (CL)? — 121

Chapter 13

Levels of Conversation — 137

Chapter 14

The Time Chasm Theory — 143

Chapter 15

The Cuckoo Clock Theory — 159

Chapter 16

How it all comes together — 163

Part IV: Artistic Expression of the Combination of KM, OD & D&I, and CL

Chapter 17

“The Unwritten Poems” — 173

Afterword by David Gurteen — 187

Appendix 1 – Use of Self – Self Assessment — 203

Appendix 2 — 205

Index — 213