

Acknowledgments

This is the English translation of my book, Film denkt Revolution, which was published in German in 2019. For making this book project possible, I want to thank first of all my PhD advisor Hermann Kappelhoff who supervised and supported this project from the very beginning and gave helpful advice and orientation in many crucial aspects. I also want to thank my secondary advisor Michael Wedel, who even though he joined the project in a rather later stage, also gave valuable advice and suggestions.

I wish to express my gratitude to the Collaborative Research Center 626 “Aesthetic Experience and the Dissolution of Artistic Limits” for creating an ideal environment to start a PhD thesis and the Cinempoetics research group, especially the graduate student colloquium, for their support in the conception of this work. Here, a special thanks goes to Danny Gronmaier who, as the first reader and commentator, played an important part in finishing the book. I am also extremely thankful for Cinempoetics’ generous financial support that enabled the printing of the English version of the book.

I want to thank Alex Bush for her thoughtful translation. For preparing the typescript for publication, I want to express my appreciation to Eh-Jae Kim, Maximilian Grenz, Charlotte Wettengel and Alexander Wiese. I thank the editors, Myrto Aspioti and Stella Diedrich from De Gruyter, for their support in making the book’s English version possible.

