

Table of Contents

Preface — V

Introduction

Annette Haug and Adrian Hielscher

Materiality as Decor: Aesthetics, Semantics and Function — 3

Monika Wagner

Surface Matters: ‘True’ and ‘False’ Gloss in Architecture — 25

Anna Anguissola

Ethical Matters: Pliny the Elder on Material Deception — 39

Materiality of Architecture: Aesthetics

Tobias Busen

The Humble Material: Masonry and Meaning in Roman Architecture — 53

Simon Barker

Marble Wall Revetment in Central Italy during the First Century A.D.: Aesthetics and Decorative Effects — 67

Dennis Beck

Use, Aesthetics and Semantics of Coloured Marble Columns in the Western Mediterranean during the Late Republic and Early Roman Empire — 95

Jessica Plant

Hard as Rock and Light as Air: Stucco Ceilings in Roman Domestic Space — 113

Arne Reinhardt

Diverging Trends in the Visual Appearance of Fired Clay in Roman Architecture: ‘Campana Plaques’ and Terracotta Façades — 131

Materiality of Architecture: Semantics

Dominik Maschek

The Meaning of Building Materials in Late Republican Architecture: Moving from Semantics to Pragmatics — 151

Matthias Grawehr

Travertine in Rome: Its Style and Meaning — 163

Materiality of Objects

Adrian Hielscher

Four-Legged Marble Tables (mensae) in Pompeian Houses: The Intersection of Function, Aesthetics and Semantics — 183

Ellen Swift

Materiality and Object Design and Function: Perspectives from Artefacts — 203

Jörn Lang

Non Arte, Sed Naturae?* Remarks on Roman Cameos and their Visual Effects — 223

Benjamin Engels

Roman Basket Urns as Elements in a Transmaterial Design System — 245

Manuel Flecker

An Age of Intermateriality: Skeuomorphism and Intermateriality Between the Late Republic and Early Empire — 265

Author Biographies — 284