

Contents

On the Series — V

Lena Dallywater, Chris Saunders, and Helder Adegar Fonseca

1 Introduction — 1

Part I: Lusophone Connections

Introduction — 13

Helder Adegar Fonseca

2 Choosing Eastern Partners: The First Phase of the “Angolan Revolution” (1960–1964) — 19

João Fusco Ribeiro

3 UNITA, China, and the Soviet Bloc: Rivalries, Constraints, and Cooperation (1964–1974) — 57

Ana Moledo

4 The Quest for the Solidarity of the World’s Working Class: Luso-African Liberation Movements and the World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU) during the 1960s and early 1970s — 81

Alba Martín Luque

5 “We Have Made History”: Yugoslav Visual Solidarity with FRELIMO’s Struggle (1967–1975) — 103

Barbora Menclová

6 Czechoslovak Experts in Independent Angola — 141

Part II: Southern African Entanglements

Introduction — 175

Alexandr Voevodskiy

7 The Sino-Soviet Split and Soviet Policy towards Southern African Liberation Movements in the early 1960s — 179

Matteo Grilli

- 8 Between Socialism and Non-Alignment: The Basutoland Congress Party and the Soviet Bloc — 199

Chris Saunders

- 9 Eastern Europe, the Soviet Union, and the Ending of Apartheid in Southern Africa Reconsidered — 221

Robin E. Möser

- 10 Soviet Diplomats and Apartheid: South Africa's Accession to the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons — 239

Part III: Euro-African Complexities

Introduction — 261

Nemanja Radonjić

- 11 Anti-Colonial Constellations: The Belgrade All-African Students Conference of 1962 — 263

Sergey V. Mazov

- 12 The Soviet Union and the Nigerian Civil War (1967–1970): Military and Technical Cooperation with the Federal Military Government of Nigeria — 289

Radoslav Yordanov

- 13 The Warsaw Pact and Libya: Economic, Political, and Military Relations, 1969–1989 — 315

Ulf Engel and Chris Saunders

- 14 Shadows of the Past? Some South African and Ethiopian Legacies — 341

List of Abbreviations — 351

List of Contributors — 355

Index — 359