

Contents

Andrea Capra and Lucia Floridi

Introduction — 1

Part I: In limine

Aglæe Pizzone

1 À rebours: intervisuality from the Middle Ages to classical antiquity — 15

Anton Bierl

2 From image to theatrical play in Aeschylus' Oresteia
Iconicity, intervisuality, the image act, and the dramatic performance act — 33

Part II: Archaic and classical age

George Alexander Gazis

3 Homer and the art of cinematic warfare — 81

Riccardo Palmisciano

4 Intervisuality in the Greek symposium — 103

Carmine Catenacci

5 The protohistory of portraits in words and images
(sixth–fifth century BCE): tyrants, poets, and artists — 121

Cecilia Nobili

6 Looking at Athens through the lyric lens — 149

Lucia Athanassaki

7 The politics of intervisuality
Euripides' Erechtheus, the West Pediment of the Parthenon, the Erechtheion, and the temple of Athena Nike — 171

Part III: Hellenistic and imperial age

Benjamin Acosta-Hughes

8 The goddess playing with gold

On the cult of Arsinoe-Aphrodite in image and text — 197

Ewen L. Bowie

9 Intervisuality in declamation and sung poetry in imperial Greek cities — 213

Lucia Floridi

10 Intervisual allusions in Lucian, Dialogues of the Sea Gods 15 — 235

Évelyne Prioux

11 Was Philostratus the Elder an admirer of Ovidian enargeia? — 255

Regina Höschele

12 ἐκ τῶν πινάκων. Aristaenetus' intervisual allusions to Philostratus' art gallery — 283

Part IV: Pointing to Rome

Matteo Cadario

13 Ordering the res gestae: observations on the relationship between texts and images in Roman 'historical' representations — 305

Appendix

List of contributors — 335

Index nominum et rerum notabilium — 339

Index locorum — 345