Table of Contents

	Acknowledgements	λ
	Chapter One: History of Exegesis	1
	Introduction	1
I.	Ahistorical Analyses	2
	1. Ahistorical Analyses Involving More Than One Gospel	2
	2. Ahistorical Analyses of Mark	4
	3. Ahistorical Analyses of Matthew	6
	4. Ahistorical Analyses of John	7
II.	Historical Miracle during the Galilean Ministry	9
	1. Older Interpreters Supporting Historicity	9
	2. Recent Supporters of Historicity	12
III.	Transformation of a Nonmiraculous Event to a Miracle	14
IV.		19
	1. Pagan Origins of the Symbolism	19
	2. Jewish Origins of the Symbolism	24
	3. Christian Origins of the Symbolism	32
V.		36
VI.	Conclusions	40
	Chapter Two: Difficulties with Previous Approaches	42
I.	Historical Miracle during the Galilean Ministry	42
II.	Transformation of a Nonmiraculous Event into a Miracle	47
III.	Symbolic Story with no Concrete Event as a Basis	49
	1. Pagan Origins of the Symbolism	49
	2. Jewish Origins of the Symbolism	61
	3. Christian Origins of the Symbolism	71
IV.	Displaced Resurrection Narrative	73
	Chapter Three: Exegesis	75
I.	Introduction	75
II.	Translation and Text-critical Notes	75
	1. Mark 6:45-52	75
	2. Matt 14:22-33
	3. John 6:16-21
III.	Delimitation, Genre, and Structure
	1. The Sea-walking Narrative as a Distinct Pericope	84

	٠	٠	•
17	1	1	1
٧	1	1

Table of Contents

	2. Literary Genre of the Sea-walking Narrative 80
	3. Structure of the Sea-walking Narrative
IV.	Comparison of John and the Synoptics
	1. Similarities between John and the Synoptics 90
	2. Differences between John and the Synoptics 9
	3. Conclusions regarding Literary Dependence
V.	Exegesis
	1. Mark 6:45-52 95
	2. Matthew 14:22-33
	3. John 6:16-21
VI.	Summary of Exegetical Results
	Chapter Four: A Displaced Resurrection Narrative
I.	Arguments Based on Literary Form
	1. Dodd's Analysis of Resurrection-appearance Narratives 110
	2. Additional Formal Characteristics
	3. Combination of Formal Characteristics
	4. Application to the Sea-walking Narratives
II.	Similarities to the Tradition in John 21:1-14
	1. Summary
III.	Structural Arguments
	1. The Sequence in Mark 8:1-10 Matt 15:32-39 13
	2. General Direction of Displacement
	3. Summary
IV.	Argument from the Uniqueness of the Resurrection
	Summary and Conclusion
Lis	t of Abbreviations
Bib	liography