

Preface

The essays collected in this volume are the edited versions of papers delivered at the conference ‘Epistolary Fiction in Ancient Greek Literature’ that took place at Humboldt University, Berlin, on 16–17 November 2017. From the fifteen papers held during the conference, eleven found their way into this book. The rich and stimulating papers and the fruitful discussions that followed made the conference a success. The editor is grateful to all the speakers, including those not represented in the volume: Renate Burri, Dorota Dutsch, Giulia Ecce and Michael Trapp. She would also like to thank Balbina Bäbler Nesselrath and Piero Totaro for their efficient chairing of the sessions.

The editor wishes to thank the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation for the award of a Humboldt Research Fellowship during which the conference was held, and the Fritz Thyssen Foundation, TransferS (laboratoire d'excellence, École normale supérieure, Paris, program “Investissements d'avenir” ANR-10-IDEX-0001-02PSL*andANR-10-LABX-0099) as well as the Institute for Classical Philology at Humboldt University for their generous financial support. Assistance in the organisation was kindly provided by Ricarda Bienbeck from the Fritz Thyssen Foundation, Annabelle Milleville and Sophie Bono-Lauriol from TransferS, and Betty Dafis, Laura Rapp, Birgit Dummin and Markus Asper at Humboldt University.

Due to various reasons, the gestation period of this volume was longer than expected. The editor is profoundly grateful to the contributors for their patience.
