

Acknowledgements

The research on which this book is based was initially carried out from 2018 to 2021 at Geneva University of Art and Design (HEAD – Genève, HES-SO) as part of the project “Le faire comme cheminement. La technique artistique à l’épreuve du refus du métier dans la pratique contemporaine,” funded by the Swiss National Science Foundation. A study day held in 2019 at HEAD – Genève under the title “Ways of Making. The Artist’s Hand in Conceptual Practices,” and the session “A Perfunctory Affair? Conceptual Art Put to the Test of Its Material Execution” presented at the Fourth Swiss Congress of Art History in 2019, have particularly inspired this present volume.

I would like to express my deep gratitude to all those who have contributed at every stage of this long-term research project. These include the members of the “Le faire comme cheminement” project team, namely Jean-Marie Bolay, Bénédicte le Pimpec, and Valérie Mavridorakis, as well as the speakers and participants in the two colloquia and the authors of the essays in this volume, whose knowledge and insights have helped to further develop and refine our initial investigations. I also convey my sincere appreciation to Timothy Aubry, Larisa Dryanski, Noémie Etienne, Clara Pacquet, Sandra Parvu and Fiona Siegenthaler, with special thanks to Diego, Mateo and Irene Caballero Yáñez.

The publication of this book was made possible by the joint financial support of the Swiss National Science Foundation and HEAD – Genève. My thanks in particular go to Lada Umstätter, Director of HEAD – Genève, as well as to her predecessor, Jean-Pierre Greff. I would also like to express my gratitude to Julie Enckell-Julliard, Head of Cultural Development, and Anthony Masure, Dean of Research, for their continued support and guidance throughout the publication process. Finally, I would like to thank Anja Weisenseel, Arielle Thürmel, and David Fesser at De Gruyter for their sound judgment, efficiency and professionalism, which contributed greatly to the development of this book.

