

Acknowledgments

The conference on which this volume is based, “Grasping Emotions: Methodological Concepts of Biblical Emotion Research in Interreligious and Interdisciplinary Discourse,” took place at the invitation of the editors on October 21–24, 2021. The conference facilitated an interdisciplinary and interreligious investigation of methodological concepts of research on emotions in and evoked by ancient iconography and religious texts. The goal of the conference was to discuss a wide variety of concepts, definitions, and terminologies and to explore possible synergies. The results of the conference, supplemented by further contributions, are presented in this volume. We would like to express our deep gratitude to all contributors.

This volume is a result of the project “Emotionale Positionierung: Modalitäten und Konstellationen der Demut,” partaking in the LOEWE network “Religiöse Positionierung: Modalitäten und Konstellationen in jüdischen, christlichen und islamischen Kontexten,” in which the Goethe University in Frankfurt am Main and the Justus Liebig University in Giessen collaborated in 2017–2021. Special thanks go to the network’s spokesperson, Prof. Dr. Christian Wiese, and its coordinator, Dr. Nina Fischer, whose personal commitment surpassed our expectations. We also thank both for including our volume in their book series Religiöse Positionierungen in Judentum, Christentum und Islam.

Further thanks are due to Alice Meroz from Walter de Gruyter, who facilitated the publication with her expert and always friendly advice. For her tireless commitment to the conference, we thank above all Dr. Juliane Eckstein. For their further support we would like to thank Dr. Simon Bellmann and Felix Lamberti. Dr. Joseph Longarino provided very helpful support for the publication, for which we would like to express our gratitude.

We would also like to express our sincere thanks for the funds from the Protestant Church in Hessen and Nassau and the Dioceses of Mainz and Osnabrück, which made the printing of this book project possible.
