A number of people and institutions helped us complete this volume which includes the proceedings of the conference held at the University of Turin in October 20–22, 2022 and organized by the A.G.A.T.H.O.C.L.E.S project, the University of Turin, and the University of Arizona. Our deepest thanks to all institutions which supported us in numerous way with organizing the conference and publishing this volume: the European Commission Marie Skłodowska-Curie Global Fellowship for the A.G.A.T.H.O.C.L.E.S project (Grant Agreement no. 893629), the University of Turin (Department of Historical Studies) and the University of Arizona (School of Anthropology, Department of Religious Studies and Classics, and Provost's Author Support Fund).

We would like to thank immensely all the members of the Scientific Advisory Committee that supported us in this initiative. Following an alphabetic order, they are: Peter Acton (University of Melbourne), Martin Bentz (Bonn University), Monica Gulmini (University of Turin), Pirjo Hamari (University of Helsinki), Mario Iozzo (Museo Archeologico Nazionale di Firenze), Maria Chiara Lebole (University of Turin), Kathleen Lynch (University of Cincinnati), Ian McPhee (La Trobe University), Valeria Meirano (University of Turin), Dimitris Paleothodoros (University of Thessaly), Claude Pouzadoux (Paris-Nanterre University), Ted Robinson (University of Sydney), Susan Rotroff (Washington University in St. Louis), Francesca Silvestrelli (Università del Salento), Mark Stansbury O'Donnell (University of St. Thomas, Minnesota), and Athena Tsingarida (Université libre de Bruxelles). They peer-reviewed both the conference abstracts and this volume's essays and they generously offered advice to the volume editors on several aspects.

Our warmest thanks also to the session chairs who enriched the discussion during the two-day conference in Turin: Mario Iozzo, Kathleen Lynch, Valeria Meirano, and Ted Robinson. Many thanks also to Elisa Ercolin and Simone Guion, both at the University of Turin, who ably handled several administrative duties as conference secretaries.

We sincerely express our appreciation to the contributing authors who helped us meet a tight timetable by responding quickly to our requests. The roster of authors in this volume draws both on conference participants and presenters in the A.G.A.T.H.O.C.L.E.S International Webinar Series (two editions) held on Spring 2022 and Spring 2023. We greatly acknowledge the oral presentations by Sanchita Balachandran (Smithsonian Museum), Jared Benton (Old Dominion University), Sheramy Bundrick (University of South Florida), Shawn Graham (Carleton University), Caroline Jeffra (Immersive Heritage Studio), Martin Langner (Universität Göttingen), Christopher F. Motz (University of Richmond), David Saunders (J. Paul Getty Museum) and Angela Ziskowsky (Coe College), who could not participate in this volume.

Our warmest thanks to Paul Psoinos and Gil Renberg for assisting the editors with copy-editing of the text. Finally, we are greatly indebted to Jessica Bartz, Mirko Vonderstein and Jens Lindenhain (De Gruyter) for their steadfast support and their attentive production of this volume.
