This project began as my D.Phil. thesis at the University of Oxford, so my first expression of appreciation goes to Paul Fiddes, Philip Endean, and John Briggs. Paul Fiddes was been a patient and generous teacher, and he guided my progress since my first days at Oxford in 2007 through completion in 2014. Philip Endean was my co-supervisor for my D.Phil. until he left Oxford for other opportunities. He offered exacting advice and warm encouragement. John Briggs was one of my supervisors during my first year and helped me formulate this project. His wisdom and direction proved indispensable.

In Montevideo, Uruguay, Elbio Medina, José Irureta, and Carolos del Castillo graciously hosted me, extended friendship, and helped me find resources in the Jesuit archives at Manresa Casa de Oración y Retiros. In particular, Elbio Medina graciously gave of his time as we discussed Segundo's ideas and welcomed me into his home for many late-night conversations. José Irureta trusted me with the irreplaceable cassette tapes of Segundo leading his version of a base community. I owe him my deepest gratitude for giving me such a resource. Carlos del Castillo freely gave of his time, driving me to and from the airport and offering his friendship. ¡Un abrazo grande!

Kenny Park and Denise DeVries were helpful as I was translating unpublished material from Spanish into English. I appreciate their assistance. The new material is presented in a parallel Spanish/English version in the Appendices. ¡Muchas gracias!

To the congregations of Kilmarnock Baptist Church, Kilmarnock, Virginia, and University Baptist Church, Charlottesville, Virginia, I offer a heartfelt thank you. Both congregations are supportive and accepting of a minister who takes time to write theology. University Baptist Church gave me a writing leave in 2022 to complete this book, and I could not have done it without the additional time away from pastoral duties. ¡Sursum corda!

My children Dean and Edison and spouse Melanie encouraged and supported me throughout this process. !Te quiero muchísimo!
