

Contents

Introduction — 1

- 1 Television's Empowered Women — 5
- 2 Femme, Fem(me)ininity, and Femmephobia — 14
- 3 Television and Viewership — 22
- 4 Overview of the Book — 32

Chapter 1: Watching Women's Bodies — 35

- 1 Televisual Style — 39
- 2 Essentialism, Pregnancy, and Transwomen — 43
- 3 Essentializing Women's Bodies on Bones — 51
- 3.1 Pregnancy Glory on Bones — 54
- 3.2 Bones' Weak Reproductive Body — 57
- 4 A Gender Essentialized Gaze and Televisual Style — 62
- 4.1 The Gender Essentialized Gaze and Non-pregnant Ciswomen — 63
- 4.2 The Gender Essentialized Gaze and Transwomen on TV — 65
- 5 Conclusion — 69

Chapter 2: Watching Men Watch Women — 72

- 1 Looking Relations — 75
- 2 Desire and the Subject — 78
- 3 Anthony Bridgerton's Excruciating Desire — 82
- 3.1 A Sequence of Looks — 85
- 3.2 Anatomy of the Agony Shot: The Bee-sting Scene — 86
- 3.3 The Fantasy of Agony's Fantasy — 90
- 3.4 Asking for It — 92
- 3.5 The Real Subject: White Masculinity, Victimhood, and Violence — 94
- 4 Conclusion — 98

Chapter 3: Watching Feminists — 102

- 1 Televisual Tropes of Empowered Women — 105
- 2 A Powerful Girl Gone Badass — 115
- 2.1 Shaming Femmephobia — 118
- 2.2 Feminists Date Feminists — 122
- 3 Conclusion — 131

Chapter 4: Watching Femme — 134

- 1 Femme Analysis — 138
- 2 Femmephobia and the Racist Stereotypes of Black Women on TV — 143
- 3 Femme and Femmephobia on The Rookie: Feds — 149
- 3.1 Femme Resistance on The Rookie: Feds — 151
- 3.2 White Supremacist Femininity on The Rookie: Feds — 159
- 3.3 A Fierce Bedonkadonk on The Rookie: Feds — 162
- 3.4 Black Femme: Proving Yourself (Again) on The Rookie: Feds — 164
- 4 Conclusion — 172

Conclusion — 175

- 1 Objectifying Femininity through a Gender Essentialized Gaze — 175
- 2 Objectifying Femininity through the Agony Shot — 179
- 3 Objectifying Femininity through Racist Stereotypes — 180
- 4 Televisual Trends for Women's Subjecthood — 181
- 5 Methodological Contributions — 184
- 6 Power Never Goes Out of Style — 188

References — 190

Index — 203