Thankful to God Almighty and grateful to those who have given me a great deal of encouragement and assistance throughout the writing of this book. First and foremost, I would like to express my genuine appreciation and deep sense of gratitude to my Ph.D. committee members, in particular, Prof. Dr. Khaled Fahmy, whose invaluable works have extensively helped me in selecting a suitable approach to the character and policies of Muḥammad ‘Alī Bāshā. It is also an unpretentious pleasure to express my sincere appreciation to Prof. Dr. Charbel Dagher, whose ideas and honest comments have added tremendous value to my work. Likewise, many thanks to Prof. Dr. Hendrik Ziegler, whose work on art and propaganda has provided me with a great insight into absolute monarchies’ visual politics. Moreover, profound thanks to Dr. Pierre Hecker for the stimulating discussions, valuable support, and encouragement. Likewise, I would like to candidly acknowledge my colleague Dr. Ayşe Çavdar, who provided me with immense assistance through feedback, comments, and inspiring notes on traditional Ottoman legitimization tactics and her help in translating modern Turkish material on Muḥammad ‘Alī Bāshā. Furthermore, I would particularly like to thank my Ottoman language instructor, Dr. Korkut Bugday, for helping me with the Ottoman text, and to the Egyptian heritage photographer and conservation expert Karim Badr for allowing me to use a number of his photography works in this book.

I would also like to thank the Yousef Jameel Foundation and the Marburg University Research Academy (MARA) for their support and for all of the opportunities I was generously given to fulfill my research. Moreover, I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to Walter de Gruyter GmbH team for their great support during the preparation process of this book.

Finally, I would like to also thank my family and friends, without whom I could not have completed this book. Special thanks to my colleagues for their sensible counsel, compassionate ears, and the care they have given me throughout the most challenging moments of my research.
