

Contents

Preface and Acknowledgements — IX

Introduction

Muslim Mobilities — 1

Moved by Dubai — 7

Being ‘Islamic’ – Navigating Belonging between Ambitions and Constraints — 13

Spatializing Islamic Reform — 20

Chapter Outline — 30

Chapter 1

Meaningful Movements, Meaningful Places: The Good Elsewhere — 34

Going Abroad to Seek ‘Hopeful Knowledge’: Engaging in Rihla — 37

Returning Home ... and Leaving Again: Hijra — 54

Sensing ‘Real’ Connectedness through Hajj Stories — 68

Chapter 2

Kamak Worlds: “We do Business, We’re not Migrants!” — 76

Baniyas Square — 76

Tajik Dubai Business: Entangled Routes, Histories, Connectivities — 83

Doing Business with Shuba — 88

Working with Arabs — 101

Peripheral Cosmopolitans — 113

Chapter 3

Furs and Piety in the ‘Evil Paradise’ — 121

Da’wa Spaces — 123

Money, Morality, Masculinity: Forming Kamak Subjects — 126

‘Proper Work’ – A Contested Concept — 138

Puli Baraka: Economic Theologies and Uneven Prosperity — 143

Chapter 4

Beyond Work: Making Dubai a Muslim Place — 153

Mosques and Endowments — 154

Adopting Arabic Names — 166

Lunchtime Talks — 170

Pleasures and Piety in a Tempting Paradise — 183
From Embodied Placemaking to Alternative Belonging — 187

Chapter 5

Housing, Home, and the Good Muslim Life — 191

Women's Worlds — 192
Places More Muslim Than Dubai: Sharjah — 195
Mosques and Mooring — 200
The Aesthetics and Ethics of Neighborhood Sociabilities — 207

Conclusion

On Temporality, Flexibility, Positionality, and Connectivity — 229

On Temporality: Spatial Moments — 230
On Flexibility — 233
On Positionality: A Peripheral Cosmopolitanism — 237
On Connectivity: 'Dubai Islam' — 241

Bibliography — 248

Index — 268