

Contents

Federica Breimaier, Stefano Cristelli, Michele Loporcaro, Stefano Negrinelli, Tania Paciaroni and Mario Wild

Introduction — 1

Michela Cennamo

Variation and change in transitivity alternations and argument realization in Italo-Romance — 9

Annamaria Chilà and Alessandro De Angelis

Syntactic and functional broadening of the reflexive markers in Romance:
for a typological approach — 33

Claudia Crocco and Kim A. Groothuis

The prosodic features of pragmatic chillo in Neapolitan: implications for syntax and diachrony — 55

Silvio Cruschina and Valentina Bianchi

On the surprising origin of what-particles in Italian dialects — 79

Lisa Gasner

On the evolution of mesocclisis in the imperative in Western Lombard varieties — 107

Alberto Giudici

Inflectional classes in Istriot: a first systematisation in diachrony and synchrony — 127

Paolo Izzo and Beatrice Perrone

Parlare le cose*: structural aspects and syntactic-semantic disambiguation of some Italo-Romance verba dicendi in a diachronic and synchronic perspective — 143

Pietro Milano

The mass neuter of Praianese: new data and some insights — 163

Diego Pescarini

Differential possessive marking in Italo-Romance — 187

Adriano Salvi

On the feminine plural definite article and the interrogative conjugation in the dialect of Berbenno (BG) — 213

Carmelina Toscano

Pseudo-coordination and cu-finite construction in Salento:
a case of syntactic reanalysis — 233

Giusy Truncellito

Differential object marking in the dialects of Southern Calabria — 255

Language index — 281

Name index — 285

Subject index — 289