

Contents

Acknowledgments — VII

List of Abbreviations — XI

Foreword

(Auto)biography of a thesis — XIII

1 Introduction — 1

- 1.1 Theoretical framework — 2
- 1.2 A short history of textbook research in and about the area — 11
- 1.3 From background knowledge to constellation mapping — 40

2 Lebanese history textbooks in context — 70

- 2.1 The sample — 70
- 2.2 Diachronic overview of Lebanese textbooks — 74
- 2.3 The parallel evolution of Syrian and Iraqi textbooks — 88
- 2.4 Conclusion — 93

3 Lebanese history textbooks as a genre — 95

- 3.1 The sample — 95
- 3.2 Formal characteristics — 101
- 3.3 Narratological characteristics — 124
- 3.4 Conclusions — 162

4 One “us” and three “others” — 165

- 4.1 Ethnoreligious minorities and the migrant other — 165
- 4.2 Ethnic differences, slavery, and violence — 206
- 4.3 Women in and outside the border — 230
- 4.4 Conclusions — 262

5 Conclusion — 269

- 5.1 Major findings — 269
- 5.2 Limitations — 274
- 5.3 Post Scriptum: on position and horizon — 274
- 5.4 Post post Scriptum: class, race and gender? — 276

Annex I
excerpts from NT in Arabic — 277

Annex II
Summary of the proposed curriculum reforms in 2011 (Mneimneh, June 2023) — 279

Bibliography — 287

Index — 292