

Table of Contents

1.	Introduction	1
	Footnotes to chapter 1	8
2.	The study of PPs in transformational grammar	9
2.1.	The odyssey of a category	9
2.2.	The aspects position: John decided on the boat	10
2.3.	Ross' position: PP = NP	13
2.4.	Fillmore's position: P = case	14
2.5.	The generative semantics position: P = V	18
2.6.	The EST position: PP = PP	21
2.7.	The functional status of PPs reconsidered	23
	Footnotes to chapter 2	28
3.	The internal syntax of Dutch prepositional phrases	30
3.1.	Introducing the X-bar theory	30
3.2.	A brief survey of Dutch phrase structure	32
3.2.1.	The main rules	32
3.2.2.	A feature system for pronouns	36
3.3.	The specifier system	45
3.3.1.	The structure of the specifier	45
3.3.2.	An aside on the movement of specifiers	49
3.4.	Intransitive prepositions	51
3.4.1.	Real intransitive prepositions	51
3.4.2.	Particles	53
3.5.	The complement system	57
3.5.1.	P - N'''	57
3.5.2.	P - P'''	57
3.5.3.	P - V'''	60
3.6.	The question of P - N''' - X'''	61
3.6.1.	Some dubious cases	61
3.6.2.	Absolute prepositional phrases	62
3.7.	Postpositions	86
3.7.1.	Two kinds of postpositions	86
3.7.2.	The interaction of postpositions and particles	90
3.7.3.	Prepositions with particles	108
3.7.4.	Prepositions, postpositions and X-bar theory	112

3.8.	Summary	121
3.8.1.	Summary	121
3.8.2.	Summary of rules	122
	Footnotes to chapter 3	124
4.	Prepositional phrases as islands	132
4.1.	Introduction	132
4.2.	Dutch prepositional phrases as islands	134
4.2.1.	Extraction from P'''	134
4.2.2.	Non-extractability	137
4.2.3.	Isolating the cases of extractability	143
4.3.	English prepositional phrases as islands	144
4.3.1.	Preposition stranding	144
4.3.2.	The deceptiveness of stranding	145
4.4.	The inadequacy of previous proposals	147
4.4.1.	Ross' conditions box	147
4.4.2.	Bresnan's relativized A over A principle	150
4.4.3.	Chomsky's constraints	157
4.5.	P''' as a binding category	158
4.5.1.	Outline of the proposal	158
4.5.2.	The head constraint	160
	Footnotes to chapter 4	171
5.	Extraction out of prepositional phrases in Dutch	176
5.1.	Extraposition out of prepositional phrases in Dutch	176
5.1.1.	The problem	176
5.1.2.	Extraposition from the specifier of the prepositional phrase	177
5.1.3.	Extraposition of modifying clauses from the complement of the preposition	180
5.1.4.	Extraposition of complement clauses	184
5.1.5.	Remaining cases	187
5.1.6.	Conclusion	191
5.2.	r -movement out of prepositional phrases in Dutch	191
5.2.1.	The simple cases	191
5.2.2.	The complex cases	193

5.3.	r -movement and subjacency	209
5.3.1.	The problem	209
5.3.2.	The evidence	210
	Footnotes to chapter 5	214
6.	Extraction out of prepositional phrases in English	216
6.1.	Preliminary remarks	216
6.2.	N'''-movement	218
6.2.1.	Reanalysis	218
6.2.2.	A typological prediction	224
6.3.	wh -movement	226
6.3.1.	The COMP of P'''	226
6.3.2.	Sluicing	231
6.4.	Concluding remarks	254
	Footnotes to chapter 6	256
7.	Syntactic markedness and escape hatches	259
7.1.	Introductory remarks	259
7.2.	Escape hatches vs. category-particular parameters of bindingness	270
7.3.	Towards an operational evaluation procedure .	276
7.4.	Some diachronic implications	286
7.5.	Concluding remarks	297
	Footnotes to chapter 7	298
	Bibliography	301

