

Table of Contents

INTRODUCTION	IX
------------------------	----

PART I.

Bones of Contention, or Professionals, Dilettantes, and Who Owns History	1
--	---

1. A “Social Drama” at the Bulgarian Academy of Sciences . . .	9
2. From Breach to Crisis	39
3. No Redress, or Where Are Levski’s Bones?	65
4. A Socialist Public Sphere?	83
5. “Professionals” and “Dilettantes”	109
6. Recognizing the Schism, or What Is Worse: Bad Professionals or Good Nationalists?	139

PART II.

The Apostle of Freedom, or What Makes a Hero?	175
1. What Is a Hero and Are Heroes Born?	185
2. The “Making” of Vasil Levski	203
3. A Banner for All Causes: Appropriating the Hero	237
4. Contesting the Hero	267
5. The Literary and Visual Hypostases of the Hero	289
6. From Hero for All to Dissident and Back	307

PART III.

The National Hero as Secular Saint: The Canonization of Levski	347
1. The Split, or How a Bicephalous Organism Functions	359
2. The Canonization and Its Implications	373
3. Levski and the Bulgarian Church: Memory and Narration . .	399
4. The Orchestration of a Grassroots Cultus	429

5. Commemoration, Ritual, and the Sacred	447
6. Heroes and Saints: the Dialectics of Reincarnation	477
CONCLUSION	503
APPENDIX	515
I. The Scholarly Consensus on the 1956 Excavations until the 1980s in the Writings of Stamen Mikhailov: A Critical Analysis	517
II. The Discussion at the Academy of Sciences: 10, 12, and 27 February 1986	528
III. Letter of 20 Bulgarian Historians to Todor Zhivkov, 4 May 1987	562
IV. Poems Written by Citizens on the Topic of Levski's Grave	567
V. Letter of Radka Poptomova, April 1987	571
VI. Letter of the Medieval Archeology Section at AI, June 2001	576
VII. The Double-headed Hierarchy of the Bulgarian Orthodox Church (1996–2004)	577
VIII. School Questionnaires on Levski	579
INDEX	587