

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	7
Introduction	9
The Child as Uncanny Other
Section One Secrets and Hieroglyphs: The Uncanny Child in American Horror Film
1. The Child and Adult Trauma in American Horror of the 1980s	35
2. The Uncanny Child of the Millennial Turn	67
Section Two Insects Trapped in Amber: The Uncanny Child in Spanish Horror Film
3. The Child and Spanish Historical Trauma	95
4. The Child Seer and the Allegorical Moment in Millennial Spanish Horror Cinema	121
Section Three Our Fear Has Taken on a Life of Its Own: The Uncanny Child in Japanese Horror Film
5. The Child and Japanese National Trauma	155
6. The Prosthetic Traumas of the Internal Alien in Millennial J-Horror	185

Section Four Trauma’s Child: The Uncanny Child in Transnational Coproductions and Remakes

7. The Transnational Uncanny Child	219
8. Progress and Decay in the 21st Century The Postmodern Uncanny Child in THE OTHERS (Alejandro Amenábar, 2001)	241
9. ‘Round and round, the world keeps spinning. When it stops, it’s just beginning’ Analogue Ghosts and Digital Phantoms in THE RING (Gore Verbinski, 2002)	265
Conclusion	283
Works Cited	289
Filmography	307
Artworks	313
Music	315
Film Index	317
Index	321