

Table of Contents

|                                                   |    |
|---------------------------------------------------|----|
| List of Abbreviations Commonly Used in Notes      | 7  |
| List of Illustrations                             | 9  |
| Introduction                                      | 11 |
| John Coakley, C. Nathan Kwan, David Wilson |    |

Section I Jurisdiction

|                                                                                                                                         |    |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| 1. Local Maritime Jurisdiction in the Early English Caribbean                                                                           | 33 |
| John Coakley                                                                                                                     |    |
| 2. Primitive, Peregrinate, Piratical: Framing Southeast Asian Sea-Nomads in Nineteenth-Century Colonial Discourse and Imperial Practice | 57 |
| Martin Müller                                                                                                                    |    |

Section II Practices

|                                                                                                                         |     |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 3. Scots, Castilians, and Other Enemies: Piracy in the Late Medieval Irish Sea World                                    | 95  |
| Simon Egan                                                                                                       |     |
| 4. Boston, Logwood, and the Rise and Decline of the Pirates, 1713 to 1728                                               | 121 |
| Steven J. Pitt                                                                                                   |     |
| 5. Pirate Encounters and Perceptions of Southern-Netherlandish Sailors on the North Sea and the Indian Ocean, 1704–1781 | 151 |
| Wim de Winter                                                                                                    |     |

Section III Representations

|                                                                                                                                                                                |     |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 6. "A Fellow! I think, in all Respects, worthy your Esteem and Favour": Fellowship and treachery in A General History of the Pyrates, 1724–1734Rebecca James | 177 |
| 7. Henry Glasby: Atypical Pirate or a Typical Pirate?James Rankine                                                                                                  | 201 |
| 8. "Our Affairs with the Pyratival States": The United States and the Barbary Crisis, 1784–1797Anna Diamantouli                                                     | 227 |
| AfterwordClaire Jowitt                                                                                                                                              | 249 |
| Bibilography                                                                                                                                                                   | 257 |
| Index                                                                                                                                                                          | 283 |