

Acknowledgments

This book is the result of several contributions that I received from its inception and throughout the writing process and which I would like to acknowledge. The book was written within the framework of the ERC project RUTTER – Making the Earth Global. I would like to start by thanking Professor Henrique Leitão, the project's Principal Investigator, for all the support, friendship, patience, comments and access to bibliography. Without Professor Leitão's encouragement and numerous conversations during these years, the final version would have been very different. My gratitude goes also to my project colleagues with whom I shared ideas and materials that are also used in this book: José María Moreno Madrid, Luis Ribeiro, Luana Giurgevich, David Salomoni, Juan Acevedo, Joana Lima, Carmo Lacerda and Inês Bénard. This book is the direct result of RUTTER's ambience of academic interchange and also of research missions in England, France, Spain and Italy that were only made possible by the project's financing. I also extend my acknowledgements to Professor Jorge Flores, for his early reading and comments on the book, and to two anonymous reviewers for their suggestions. Both helped me to improve the final version. A special word of thanks should go to Šima Krtalić for her invaluable patience in helping me to improve the English. I am also deeply grateful for several other academic contacts that contributed, in various ways, to this book, specifically Florike Egmond, Djoeke van Netten, Arie Pos, Rui Manuel Loureiro, Kate Lowe, Annemarie Jordan Gschwend, Hugo Miguel Crespo, Marília dos Santos Lopes, Alexandra Pelúcia, Carla Alferes Pinto, José Damião Rodrigues, Pedro Cardim, Ana Paula Avelar, Luís Costa e Sousa, André Murteira, Hélder Carvalhal and Roger Lee de Jesus. Finally, I would like to acknowledge my family for their support, which was always fundamental.

Collectively, all these contributions helped make the book's final version. Any errors or mistakes in this book are entirely my responsibility. This book is dedicated to my sister and to Hugo Espada for their support from its inception and during all these years.
