
TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION: FEMINIST CRITICISM IN RELATION TO ART AND THE THEORY OF CULTURE. A SHORT REVIEW	1
Does there exist a subject of dispute?	1
Art as play (The "post-Freudian" psychoanalytic variant)	4
Art as a subjective act	9
Art as the reinterpretation of existing reality	11
Art as a place of personal contact	14
A stroll around the theme	16
Where do we stand?	17
 PART 1 THE QUESTION OF THE "ENTHUSIASTS"	 23
Before Chmielowski	23
Two myths: The literary and the patriotic	26
The position of the historians	32
Women and history	37
Who were the Enthusiasts?	43
The Feminism of the Enthusiasts	54
 PART 2 ŻMICHOWSKA VERSUS HOFFMANOWA: THE STRATEGY OF THE BEE	 65
An especially important text and an especially important person	65
Without precedent	71
Mistress and pupil—two biographies, two personalities	73
An ideal coincidence	77
The new situation	79
The parting of the ways	81

Oversight or treason	82
The strategy of the bee	85
PART 3 GRAPPLING WITH FORM	93
Baffling and peculiar novels	93
A brief survey of the form of the novels	101
From Sterne to Irzykowski	111
Żmichowska the eccentric	117
Żmichowska as a Post-Modernist writer	121
PART 4 THE SAMARITAN WOMAN AT THE WELL	129
The problem of authorship	129
The negative answer	133
The link with Mickiewicz	134
The positive answer	137
The author and her sex	139
A woman of a transitional age	142
Conclusions	146
The family circle	147
Children and family life in centuries past (according to Philippe Ariès)	148
Family life (according to Żmichowska)	150
The lack of a father	159
The "Romantic" mother	162
Narcyza's brain	164
Self-realization	164
The anti-martyrological trend and the "palm of martyrdom"	167
Self-realization—continued	169
Psychoanalytic threads	172
From Pierre Leroux to psychoanalysis	172
The androgyne: "Not to be a man, not to be a woman"	178
In conclusion: The story of Christ and the Samaritan woman	183

PART 5 ORZESZKOWA AND THE STRATEGY OF SELF-ADJUSTMENT	189
Another generation, other modes of behavior	189
The rule and the exception—Konopnicka	192
Unspoken choices	198
Another model	202
Orzeszkowa	204
Molding her biography	205
Asceticism and renunciation	209
Fiction by secondary writers	214
Images of the mother	217
Eros and Psyche	222
Calculations, results, conclusions: Orzeszkowa's "Parnassianism"	223
The strategy of self-adjustment	226
 PART 6 ORZESZKOWA: SELF-CORRECTION AND THE PROBLEM OF LIMITS	 233
Signals of a change	233
Moments of revelation	234
From asceticism to ecstasy	239
Love	241
Other surprises	243
Where does this all come from?	247
Orzeszkowa's corset	251
 PART 7 FOUR ROADS: REGRESSION, NARCISSISM, STRUGGLE, ART	 255
Feminization	255
Works written by women	257
Digression: What is women's literature/poetry?	258
The first scenario: Retrogression	262
Nietzscheanism (the second scenario)	267
The third scenario: War and revolution	280
The fourth scenario: Love and art	285
Parnassianism	291

PART 8 A COMPARATIVE READING OF THE DIARIES OF ZOFIA NAŁKOWSKA AND MARIA DĄBROWSKA	305
Mythical beginnings	305
The diary as a prefiguration of works to come	310
Diaries and truth	316
CONCLUSION	323
INDEX	329