In this issue

Emiel Dobbelaar and Janine Richter An overview of young chemists' expectations towards the sustainable development of the chemical sector. Opinions that matter https://doi.org/10.1515/pac-2021-0602 Pure Appl. Chem. 2022; 94(1): 1–14 Invited paper: Young chemists express their expectation of the chemical sector to take a lead role in the transformation towards sustainability and to ensure that current sustainable development goals are met through collaboration with other sectors. Their views of sustainable products and processes, the future of education and possible implementation levels are addressed.

Keywords: Chemical education; society; sustainability; sustainable development; young chemists; youth engagement.

