Acknowledgments

Work on this book was supported through the generosity of the Rockefeller Foundation and the Bellagio Conference and Study Center; the University of California Humanities Research Institute at University of California, Irvine; and the Division of Social Science at the University of California, Santa Cruz.

Many generous and amazing people contributed in large and small ways to the realization of this book. For their wise counsel, critical insight, sustaining friendship, and so many "bright moments" over the years, a thousand thanks to Earl Lewis, George Lipsitz, Peggy Pascoe, George Sánchez, and Dana Takagi, editors at University of California Press for the American Crossroads series; Barbara Abrash, Charles Amerkanian, Daphane Brooks, Cheryl Brown, Leonard Brown, John T. Caldwell, Richard Campbell, John Brown Childs, Jim Clifford, Steve Coleman, Jon Cruz, Michael Curtin, Angela Davis, Gina Dent, Manthia Diawara, David Eason, Harry Elam, Steven Feld, Raul Fernandez, Andrew Frisardi, David T. Goldberg, Robert Goldman, Jennifer Gonzales, Gayatri Gopinath, Larry Gross, Ed Guererro, Jocelyn Guilbault, Beth Haas, Michelle Habel-Pallen, Bambi Haggins, Craig Haney, Michael Hansen, John Hartley, Randy Heyman, Melessa Hemler, Darnell Hunt, Aida Hurtado, Robin D. G. Kelley, L. S. Kim, Valerie Kuletz, Josh Kun, George Lewis, Elizabeth Long, Chip Lord, Tommy L. Lott, James Lull, Anthony Macias, Toby Miller, David Morley, Monica McCormick, Jim Neumann, the Oakland Museum of California, Michael Omi, Kent Ono, Other Minds, Lesleigh Owen, Armando Pena, Rene Tajima-Pena, Eric Porter, Lourdes Portillo, B. Ruby Rich, Art Sato, Mary Severance, Lynn Spigel, Clyde Taylor, Sasha Torres, Gayle Wald, Mary Helen Washington, David Wellman, Clark White, Richard Yarborough, and Pamela Z.

At the invitation of many generous colleagues, I presented papers, gave talks, and exchanged ideas about cultural politics in many places, near and far to home. Thanks to colleagues and students at the following institutions for a warm welcome and critical engagement with my work: the Graduate Program in American Studies at Indiana University; African American Studies at University of California, Irvine; School of Mass Communication at Middle Tennessee State University; California College of Arts and Crafts: Chicano Latino Research Center at UCSC: American Studies Program, Canterbury University, Christchurch, New Zealand; Center for Media, Culture, and History, New York University; Institute for the Study of Social Change, UC Berkeley; Department of English Pamona College; UCLA School of Theater, Film and Television; Casa de America, Madrid; Institute for Future Studies and the Critical Studies Program, School of Cinema, University of Southern California; Center for 21st Century Studies, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee; Ethnic Studies Department, University of California, San Diego; Center for Advanced Studies, Stanford University; School of Justice Studies, Arizona State University.

The influences of present and former students with whom I've worked over the years are evident in this work in ways that I hope they will recognize. My thanks to Barbara Barnes, Delia Douglas, Jennifer Eichstedt, Michelle Erai, Kevin Fellez, Lynn Fujiwara, Sarita Gaytan, Macarena Gómez-Barris, April Henderson, Needra James, Cindy Lui, Dacia Mitchell, Sudarat Musikawong, Akiko Naono, Celine Pascale, Tammy Ko Robinson, Russell Rodriguez, Rebecca Scott, Aaron Selverston, Inger Stark, Robert Thompson, Deborah Vargas, Eddie Yuen.

Finally, thanks to my parents for their commitment to social justice. Thank you, Xochi, for your courage, Jas for your joy, Sergio for your determination, and Rosa Linda for your love and example.

Herman Gray Oakland, California September 2003