

Contents

Acknowledgments vii

Introduction i

1. The Passions and Theories of Community 7

 The Self in Visions of Community 7

 Relation in Feminist Theories of Community 9

 The Communitarian Critics of Liberalism 10

 The Self in Communitarian Philosophy 11

 Two Communitarian Accounts of the Self 14

 The Response of Feminist Political Theory 18

 The "Communitarian" Self in Feminism 21

 Conclusion 24

2. Coming to Terms with the Passions 26

 The Disagreeable Passions in Feminism 26

 Early Object Relations Theory 30

 Feminism against Object Relations 33

 Melanie Klein 38

 Donald Winnicott 39

 The Feminist Appropriation of Object Relations 41

 Conclusion 46

3. The Voices of Care and Reparation 47

 The Care Perspective 47

 Thinking and Feeling 50

viii Contents

Thinking, Feeling, and Gender	54
The Problem of Aggression	56
Gilligan's Rejection of Psychoanalytic Theory	60
Klein and the Morality of Reparation	62
Klein, Winnicott, and the Disagreeable Passions	65
Reparation and Care	66
Conclusion	68
 4. The Passions in Feminist Object Relations	 70
Object Relations Feminism	70
Nancy Chodorow: Gender and Mothering	71
Mature Relations and the Unreasonable Child	74
Melanie Klein: The Balance of Love and Hate	77
Jessica Benjamin: The Bonds of Love	81
Love, Power, and Rage	83
Donald Winnicott and Destruction	87
Conclusion	91
 5. Reconstituting the Self in Social Theory	 93
The Disagreeable Passions: A Reprise	93
Dorothy Dinnerstein	95
The Persistence of the Passions	97
Splitting in Feminist Theory	103
Communitarianism Revisited	105
Psycho-Social Theory Revisited	106
Whole Selves in Social Theory	110
Conclusion	112
 Notes	 115
 Bibliography	 127
 Index	 137