

Contents

Acknowledgements	xi
Figures and Tables	xiii
Acronyms	xv
Transcription Conventions	xvii
1 Researching Bilingual Early Childhood Education: An Institutional Ethnography	1
1.1 Potential of Bilingual Education in the Early Childhood Sector	2
1.1.1 Language learning in the early years	2
1.1.2 ‘Killing two birds with one stone’: Bilingual education in childcare	3
1.1.3 Childcare attendance rates	4
1.2 Linguistic Diversity in Australia and Sydney	6
1.3 Why German?	8
1.4 Approaching the Research Problem	9
1.4.1 About research methods and instruments	12
1.4.2 About ethics	17
1.5 Outline of the Book	18
2 What We Know: Language Policies and Provision	21
2.1 Bilingual Education	21
2.1.1 Challenges for bilingual education programmes	24
2.1.2 Parental attitudes towards bilingual education	26
2.1.3 Summary	29
2.2 Australia’s Explicit Language Policies: An Overview	29
2.3 Languages in Education	32
2.3.1 School education	32
2.3.2 Early childhood education	34
2.3.3 Institutional German in Sydney	36
2.3.4 Summary	37
2.4 Lacuna in the Body of Knowledge	37

3	The Institution	40
3.1	Fritzkidz' Background and Vision	40
3.2	Fritzkidz' Physical Infrastructure	42
3.3	Organisation and Linguistic Landscape	42
3.4	The Educators	43
3.4.1	Demographic characteristics	44
3.4.2	Qualifications and training	46
3.4.3	'There is no set goal yet': Staff and policy development	46
3.4.4	'Once it gets on board, it's a good thing, but something else might lack': Educators' attitudes to early language learning	49
3.5	Weak Grounds	52
4	Bilingual Programme Implementation	54
4.1	The Bilingual Programme	54
4.1.1	The daily routine	54
4.1.2	General communication practices	57
4.1.3	Bilingual education in practice	58
4.2	External Constraints	59
4.2.1	Asymmetries	60
4.2.2	'Okay, wo ist jetzt dein Schwerpunkt?': Conflicts of interests	67
4.2.3	Perceived involvement and interest	72
4.2.4	The bilingual programme in the public eye	75
4.3	Attitudinal Change or Reproduction?	78
5	The Clientele	83
5.1	Who Are the Fritzkidz Parents?	83
5.1.1	Linguistic practices	84
5.1.2	Place of birth and age	86
5.1.3	Educational and economic demographics	87
5.1.4	Summary	87
5.2	Choosing Fritzkidz	89
5.2.1	Reason for childcare in general	89
5.2.2	Choosing Fritzkidz in particular	90
5.2.3	Role of the bilingual programme	92
5.3	Elite Families' Childcare Needs	95
6	Value-Action Gap	97
6.1	Attitudinal Change: From Irrelevance to Influencing Language Desires and Family Practices	97
6.2	Importance of Language Learning	101
6.3	Plans to Continue with German	104

6.3.1	Convenient solution	107
6.3.2	Language competing against other subjects and activities	111
6.3.3	It's up to the child	113
6.4	Value-Action Gap as a Result of 'Language Ideological Hypocrisy' or Unfair Choice?	114
6.5	The Dead End for Affirmative Attitudes	117
7	The Value of Language and Language Learning	119
7.1	Creating an Advantage: Non-language Specific Values of Language Learning	120
7.1.1	Cognitive development	120
7.1.2	Career opportunities	121
7.1.3	Travel opportunities	124
7.1.4	Facilitating awareness	126
7.1.5	Proxy for other languages	128
7.2	The Role of German: Language-specific Values of Language Learning	130
7.2.1	Identity and family communication	130
7.2.2	Investing in learning German: It wouldn't make any sense	132
7.2.3	Associations of trustworthiness and good organisation	134
7.2.4	The German language does not matter	135
7.3	Competitiveness over German-English Bilingualism	139
8	The Future of Bilingual Early Childhood Education	143
8.1	Language Attitudes, Ideologies and Practices in Bilingual German-English Early Childhood Education	143
8.1.1	Institutional practices	143
8.1.2	Parental attitudes	145
8.1.3	The role of German	147
8.1.4	Summary	149
8.2	Implications	150
8.2.1	Institutional policy	151
8.2.2	Family policy	151
8.2.3	Public policy	152
8.3	Directions for Future Research	153
	Bibliography	155
	Index	164

I acknowledge the Darug people as the traditional custodians of the land on which the research that is presented in this book was carried out. I also wish to pay my respects to their elders, both past and present, and extend that respect to all other Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.