

Translanguaging and Epistemological Decentring in Higher Education and Research

LANGUAGES FOR INTERCULTURAL COMMUNICATION AND EDUCATION

Series Editors: Michael Byram, University of Durham, UK and Anthony J. Liddicoat, University of Warwick, UK

The overall aim of this series is to publish books which will ultimately inform learning and teaching, but whose primary focus is on the analysis of intercultural relationships, whether in textual form or in people's experience. There will also be books which deal directly with pedagogy, with the relationships between language learning and cultural learning, between processes inside the classroom and beyond. They will all have in common a concern with the relationship between language and culture, and the development of intercultural communicative competence.

All books in this series are externally peer-reviewed.

Full details of all the books in this series and of all our other publications can be found on <http://www.multilingual-matters.com>, or by writing to Multilingual Matters, St Nicholas House, 31–34 High Street, Bristol, BS1 2AW, UK.

Title: Translanguaging and Epistemological Decentring in Higher Education and Research/
Edited by Heidi Bojsen, Petra Daryai-Hansen, Anne Holmen and Karen Risager.

Description: Bristol; Jackson: Multilingual Matters, [2023] | Series: Languages for Intercultural Communication and Education: 39 | Includes bibliographical references and index. | Summary: "Using data from universities in Asia, Central and North America, Europe and the Maghreb, this book provides examples of the heuristic value of translanguaging and epistemological decentring, and argues that decentring cannot happen until learners are able to identify which sorts of centring dynamics and conditions are salient to their learning"—Provided by publisher.
