

Acknowledgments

The idea for this book on contemporary Spanish comics came at a 2015 conference banquet. Now that it has finally come together, the editors wish to extend their thanks to the individuals and institutions that have made its publication possible. We are grateful, first and foremost, to the authors whose insightful and timely scholarship form the core of the book, just as we are sincerely indebted to the talented ensemble of comics practitioners whose creative work has provided occasion for a project of this kind. Anonymous peer readers offered thorough and thoughtful suggestions for improving each of the volume's constituent parts at several crucial points along the way. People have strong feelings about comics. We hope that our efforts as editors will honour the expectations that our readers bring to the book.

The professionalism of the editorial staff at the University of Toronto Press Iberic Series – especially editors Robert Davidson and Frederick A. de Armas and acquisitions editor Mark Thompson – made the sundry phases of the publication process a joyful experience. Carolyn Zapf's copy editing on a referentially rich manuscript was remarkable. We would like to recognize the able work of Neil Anderson in translating original drafts of chapters 3 and 4 from the Spanish, Barbara Amago for her nimble skill in preparing the index, and – last but not least – Ana Galvañ for creating the original illustration featured on the cover. Research funding from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, the Pennsylvania State University, and the University of Virginia were crucial to making this volume a reality.

This book is dedicated to our students.
