

Acknowledgments

---

The volume resulted from the conference “Industrial Decline and the Rise of the Service Sector? How Did Western Europe and North America Cope with the Multifaceted Structural Transformations since the 1970s?” held in Munich in 2016 and co-sponsored by the Institute for Contemporary History (IfZ), Munich–Berlin, and the German Historical Institute (GHI), Washington, DC. The conference was organized by myself and Stefan Hördler and was envisioned together with Andreas Wirsching, director of the IfZ, and Hartmut Berghoff, then director of the GHI and now director of the Institute of Economic and Social History at the University of Göttingen.

I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to all the authors for their outstanding cooperation and great patience. Special thanks goes to Andreas Wirsching for his generous support for this volume; to Ilker Iscan, my student assistant; to Stephen Shapiro and Christine Robertson from the University of Toronto Press for their enthusiasm for the topic; to Barbara Tessman for her thorough copy-editing; and to the reviewers, whose input contributed substantially to forging the present volume into an integrated whole.

This page intentionally left blank