

Contents

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS ix

INTRODUCTION 3

Part I: Referendum Actors and Journalistic Practices

- 1 The Referendum Actors and Issues in Historical Perspective 25
- 2 Journalistic Ethics and Referendum Coverage in Montreal
ARMANDE SAINT-JEAN 37

Part II: Constructing the Interpretive Grid: 'Framing' the Referendum as Election

- 3 Television and Electoral Coverage: Changing Rules 55
- 4 The Referendum on Quebec Television: Broadcast Rules and Content Frames 84

Part III: Situating the Narrative: French/English Understandings of Quebec Nationalism

- 5 Press Interpretations: Distilling the White Paper and Beige Paper Versions of 'Nationalism' 109
- 6 Interpreting the White Paper on Television 133

Part IV: Exploring the Argumentation: Rhetorical Processes in Public Opinion Creation

- 7 'The Day After': Explaining the Referendum Outcome to French- and English-Speaking Montrealers 159
- 8 Rethinking News, Public Opinion, and Democratic Politics in Quebec and Canada 184

viii Acknowledgments

APPENDIXES

Appendix A	Chronology of Events Leading to the Referendum	223
Appendix B	Visual Content Categories	227
Appendix C	The Coding Scheme	229
Appendix D	English Vox-Pop Interviews	231
Appendix E	French Vox-Pop Interviews	237

BIBLIOGRAPHY	241
--------------	-----

AUTHOR INDEX	255
--------------	-----

SUBJECT INDEX	259
---------------	-----