Studies in the political economy of Canada (SPEC)

Capitalism and the National Question in Canada is the first collection of essays to be sponsored by SPEC. The group was founded by former members of the University League for Social Reform (ULSR), several of whom had made contributions to its most recent publication Close the 49th Parallel etc. They were conscious of the need to foster radical studies of the Canadian political economy and were broadly committed to the establishment of an independent socialist Canada.

Royalties derived from the sale of this book will be used by SPEC to sponsor further research in such aspects of the Canadian political economy as the working class and the labour movement, national culture and ideology, and Canada's integration into the American capitalist system.
